Handclasp In Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union agreed Friday to join hands in space—specifically to watch the world's weather, measure earth magnetism and use a silvery space balloon to bounce radio messages.

Newest item was word that the Soviet Union would jointly experiment with a 13½-storey U.S. Echo balloon satellite, perhaps this winter.

The satellite will provide a radio mirror in space for the passive relay or reflection of radio signals between the Soviet Union's Zhemki Observatory at Gorky State University and Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory.

TO U.S.
From Britain the messages would travel to the United States by conventional radio or cable.

Also announced was a co-ordinated weather satellite program.

It would begin early next year with the establishment of a Washington-Moscow "cold line" for direct transmission of cloud photographs taken by satellites and other satellite weather data.

COLD LINE

The "cold line" is separate from the "hot line" which will act as a primary teletype communications link between Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy on emergency international matters.

Other nations will be allowed to tap into the weather line by sharing the cost. It will be a two-way street with the Soviet Union also providing any available data from satellites, although it is not known if the Soviets have satellites photographing world cloud cover as U.S. Tiro satellites do.

No Agreement

U.S. Rail Strike Closer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A tentative agreement, at first hailed as a major breakthrough in the U.S. strike-threatening railroad work rules dispute, was endangered Friday night when management and the rail unions failed to agree on details of the two issues to be submitted to arbitration. (See earlier story, Page 5.)

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz denied that either side had flatly rejected it. A spokesman for the railroads had reported earlier that the chiefs of the five operating brotherhoods "have rejected the secretary's proposal which they said earlier that they had accepted."

But Wirtz was quick to deny this report. Instead, he said, the two sides had not agreed immediately on the details of the two issues to be submitted to binding arbitration.

Meanwhile, Wirtz said he and his staff would work with both sides on the question involving the procedure for the other issues at stake.

Railroad Puzzle

How Did the Shuttle Go?

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI)—The two-coach Princeton Shuttle, one of the Pennsylvania Railroad's most insignificant trains, is the giant rail line's biggest headache right now.

Railroad inspectors descended on the Shuttle's three short miles of track between here and Princeton Junction to find some clue as to how the little train made the entire trip without a crew.

Pennsy authorities admitted that the Shuttle made the downhill trip from Princeton to Princeton Junction just before midnight while the crew was having a coffee break. The crew said it set the train's brakes, so it couldn't have taken off on its own.

But take off it did, running on electrified overhead wires that may or may not have powered its runaway trip. Inspectors say the train could just have run downhill, but then again there was no way of knowing.

A block operator at a wayside tower said he saw the train on its eerie journey, moving silently and without lights through the historic Princeton environs where Washington once defeated Lord Cornwallis. He alerted a control point which in turn flagged down a Philadelphia-bound passenger train, six miles east of Princeton and gave it a go-slow signal.

The little Shuttle completed its accustomed trip before the passenger train, running on the main line which passes through Princeton Junction, passed by. When it did, the Shuttle was sitting on a siding that leads to a loading platform at the junction.

'Mouth-to-Muzzle' Saves Fifi's Pup

EDMONTON (CP)—Mouth-to-muzzle breathing by an Edmonton woman has kept a miniature poodle's eight-pup litter intact.

Her dog, Fifi, was expecting a litter of four.

Mrs. Barbara Martin said Friday she breathed life into one pup immediately after its birth. "I put some of my breath into his body, tapped him with a finger, he squealed and then was okay," she said.

Panicky Thieves Ditching Money?

LONDON (CP)—Two married couples and a single man were charged and ordered held without bail Friday in connection with the great train robbery as police disclosed recovery of more of the loot taken in the daring holdup.

Detectives said four bags bulging with more than £100,000 ($300,000) were found Friday by a couple strolling in a wood south of London.

This brought to about £250,000 ($750,000) the total recovered so far from the Aug. 8 holdup of a royal mail train which netted the bandits £2,600,000 ($7,900,000).

Recovery of the "hot money"

led top Scotland Yard officials to say the mail thieves may have panicked and may well try to dump much of their cash haul.

Three men and two women appeared briefly Friday before a magistrate's court at Linslade—some 40 miles northwest of London and barely five miles from the spot where the train was ambushed eight days ago.

Roger John Cordrey and Gerald Boal were charged with being concerned in the robbery. Boal's wife Rene was charged with receiving banknotes, as were Mrs. Boal's sister, Mrs. Mary Pilgrim, and her husband, Alfred Pilgrim.

Caracas, where Perez Jimenez once sent his foes.

He will wait there until the Venezuelan Supreme Court brings him to trial on charges that he embezzled his way to a huge personal fortune while in office.

Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt set the minimum amount of the alleged embezzlement at $13,000,000. A recent court suit here said Perez Jimenez was worth at least $700,000,000.

He was expected to be placed in a maximum security cell at Venezuela's main prison near

WARHEADS IN MONTHS

OTTAWA (CP)—American nuclear warheads are expected to begin rolling into Canadian storage depots some time within the next several months, under an agreement put into effect by the two countries Friday.

A-Arms

Stop! Say Women

OTTAWA (UPI)—The 7,000-member Voice of Women organization Friday called on the government to show "moral courage" and drop its plans to sign a nuclear warheads agreement with the United States.

In a statement released as the federal cabinet met to give final approval to the warheads agreement, the V.O.W. said it was "inconceivable" to take such a step while the United States Senate was debating ratification of the limited test ban treaty with Russia.

Under the agreement, announced by Prime Minister Pearson, warheads for the Bomarc B anti-aircraft missile, the Voodoo jet interceptor, the Honest John artillery rocket and the CF-104 low-level jet bomber—American-built weapons already possessed by Canada—will be made available for use by Canadian forces in an emergency.

The Bomarc missile and the Voodoo are stationed in Canada for North American air defence. A Voodoo unit at Comox will have the warheads. The Honest John rocket has been supplied to Canadian troops under NATO command in Europe, and the CF-104 is being flown by the Canadian air division in Europe.

U.S. PERSONNEL

The agreement, which Mr. Pearson said gives effect to mutual defence commitments undertaken by the previous government, provides that custody of the warheads will remain with U.S. military personnel stationed at Canadian storage sites.

Control, however, will be exercised by both governments jointly. The warheads cannot be

U.S. Slayers In B.C. As Tourists?

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Local police were alerted Friday by their opposite numbers in California to be on the lookout for two suspected murderers who may have escaped across the border in their victim's car.

The killers have been using the credit cards of Mrs. Sam Crawford and police suspect they may have slipped into Canada posing as tourists.

Mrs. Crawford was beaten, bound with silk underclothing and electrician's tape and strangled by robbers in her Santa Monica home July 23.

No 'Meeting of Minds' In Peace River Talks

VANCOUVER (CP)—Principal figures in discussions over status of a $73,000,000 Peace River dam construction project ended their talks Friday with widely differing public statements.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, said he expects "everything will be adjusted very shortly."

Peter Kiewit, president of the major construction firm on the Portage Mountain project, said "nothing has been accomplished."

The discussions were necessary because a court decision has nullified legislation creating the hydro authority.

Mr. Kiewit came to Vancouver from Omaha, Neb., earlier this week.

"I'm as confused as when I came," he said. "There has been no meeting of minds."

The construction consortium holds the existing dam contract to lack binding terms since the authority may not be a legal entity. Purchases of $10,000,000 in machinery, equipment and supplies for further work on Portage Mountain dam have been delayed.

Mr. Kiewit, who heads Peter Kiewit & Sons Company of Canada Limited, was here with Graham Dawson of Dawson Construction Limited and Vance Johnson of A. L. Johnson Construction Company of Canada Limited.

Liberals Gain

Tories Keep Profumo Seat But Suffer 'Unkindest Cut'

ANGUS MAUDE
... slight edge

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England (AP)—The ruling Conservative party has retained John D. Profumo's seat in Parliament but by a much reduced majority.

Stratford turned out 69.3 per cent of its 32,357 eligible voters Thursday to replace the former war minister who fell from grace because of the Christine Keeler-Stephen Ward vice scandal.

RESULTS

The results were: Angus Maude, Conservative, 15,846; Andrew Faulds, Labor, 12,376; Derrick Mirfin, Liberal, 7,622; Miles Blair, independent, 281; David Sutch, independent, 209.

The Conservative majority fell by more than 10,000 votes. In 1959, Profumo got 26,146 votes against 12,107 for Labor's James Streeton.

Prime Minister Macmillan's party headquarters had to be satisfied with victory but in no mood to be pleased. A big win might have lent weight to the idea of an autumn general election.

Macmillan's Conservatives had to note their vote dropped by 24.9 per cent since the 1959 triumph. Labor's tally, went up 2.57 per cent. The Liberals, who did not campaign in 1959, apparently took a lot of votes away from the Conservatives.

LORD BUTCH

The two independents, including pop singer "Screaming Lord Sutch," made no dent at all.

The Standard's political cartoonist, Vicky, quotes Stratford's most illustrious son, Shakespeare:

"This was the most unkindest cut of all."

Standing in the House of Commons:

'Peace,' Say Russians After Rescuing Pilot

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (UPI)—Smiling Soviet fishermen rescued an American jet pilot Friday after he bailed out over the Atlantic Ocean.

"Peace" was the first word the pilot heard from the crew of the Russian trawler.

Massachusetts Air National Guard Capt. Hugh Lavallee, 29, of Springfield, Mass., spent nearly an hour aboard the trawler Johanna, one of a fleet of Soviet fishing boats in the waters off the coast here.

***

They gave him medical aid, dry clothing, and offered him brandy and food aboard the ship which had 10 to 15 women in the crew.

The Soviets stitched a small cut on Lavallee's chin. He was otherwise unharmed except for two black eyes.

"They were extremely friendly," the pilot told newsmen when he returned to the base. "No one spoke English fluently but I was able to communicate with them. They all shook my hand several times."

Lavallee, an insurance man in civilian life, was on a routine training mission in his F4U Sabre jet when he ran into trouble. Along with three other jets, he was making practice firing runs at a target towed by a fourth jet over an area about 82 miles southeast of this Cape Cod base.

"Apparently the target from the low plane broke loose and struck my plane, shearing off a wing tip," he said. "The plane went out of control and I ejected from about 30,000 feet."

After landing in the water, Lavallee inflated a small emergency raft while the other three pilots circled the Soviet trawler to gain its attention. The Russians quickly fired a green signal flare to show that they understood the situation.

Warheads Soon

used operationally without a go-ahead from the Canadian government.

Mr. Pearson said the mutual-control arrangement will necessitate "quick, almost instantaneous communication" between himself and President Kennedy in times of emergency. The technical problems involved in establishing such a communications link—immediately dubbed a "hot line"—were under study by experts.

"I won't be able to go fishing without some kind of a walkie-talkie," Mr. Pearson joked.

PRESS PARLEY

The prime minister called a noon-hour press conference to announce the agreement, which had been launched about an hour earlier by an exchange of notes between External Affairs Minister Martin and U.S. Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth.

Earlier the cabinet had met to give final approval on the agreement, worked out by Canadian and U.S. negotiators at the official level and using as a basis, Mr. Pearson said, a draft bilateral agreement developed while the Diefenbaker government was in office.

FACT ASSAILED

Stanley Knowles, deputy leader of the New Democratic Party, assailed the pact as a violation of Canada's national interests.

Mr. Knowles, Commons member for Winnipeg North Centre, told a press conference Mr. Pearson's statement that the agreement conforms with Canada's position on non-dissemination of nuclear weapons is "diplomatic gibberish."

He predicted the NDP will attempt to move a non-confidence motion based on the agreement when Parliament reconvenes Sept. 30.

STORAGE DUMPS

Work is expected to begin immediately on storage dumps at Chatham, N.B., Bagerville, Que., Ottawa, North Bay, Ont., and Comox, B.C., where Voodoo interceptor squadrons are located.

A $7,000,000 appropriation was included in the 1963-64 federal spending estimates to cover construction of these dumps, which the government decided should not be built until the Canada-U.S. agreement had been concluded.

HONEST JOHN

The nuclear storage dump for Honest John rockets already has been completed at Hemer, West Germany, and construction has started on dumps for CF-104 weapons at Zweibrücken and Baden-Soellingen.

A government source indicated that the Bomarc, at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., may be nuclear-armed before the end of the year. It will take longer to nuclear-equip the Voodoos, however, especially since the necessary storage dumps have yet to be constructed.

STRINGENT SAFETY

Mr. Pearson said the "most stringent safety measures" will be taken at the nuclear sites. Safety would be the immediate responsibility of U.S. custodial personnel but must satisfy Canadian requirements.

(From Washington, it was reported that U.S. nuclear warheads shipped to Canada will be guarded by both American and Canadian troops at Canadian depots.)

Police Trying To Identify Body of Man

LILLOOET (CP)—Police are trying to identify the body of a man taken from the Fraser River 20 miles south of here.

Police say he might be one of four victims of a light plane crash at Hixon, 35 miles north of Kamloops, on Aug. 3.

But they said the body is so decomposed it is impossible to make an identification from the features.

FOUR ABOARD

Aboard the plane when it crashed were Alan Ward and Mike Sindia, operators of W and S Logging Company, owners of the aircraft, and Marie Marcel L'Hercux, 21, of Alexandria, and Helen Shulz, 19, of Matsqui.

Miss L'Hercux' body was found later, but there was no trace of the others.

The decision was contained in a resolution passed by delegates here during the closing session of the annual conference of the National Indian Council of Canada.

Tax Overhaul Urged

VANCOUVER (CP)—E. Devine Fulton, former federal justice minister and now leader of the Progressive Conservative party in British Columbia, said Friday the Canadian tax structure should be completely overhauled, setting out revenue sources and responsibilities for the three levels of government.

In some cases, the existing tax structure has intertwined into a hodge-podge, he told the royal commission on taxation.

Mr. Fulton made a short-notice appearance before the commission on the last day of its Vancouver hearings because of the "regrettable refusal" of the provincial government to present a brief.

"I think it would be a pity if the commission were to leave the province without someone speaking on behalf of the people," he said.

Among Mr. Fulton's proposals—many were on the broad issues of policy—was a suggestion that the emphasis should be shifted away from indirect taxation into the revealing light of direct taxation where people could see what they were paying. But he recognized the political advantage of having taxes levied indirectly.

"However, I think politicians—and I count myself among them—should see whether we haven't gone too far in the field of indirect taxation."

LOWER PRICES

If the federal sales tax were placed at the retail level instead of the manufacturers level, he said, it would result in lower prices—because it now is included in percentage markups down the line. The tax could actually be raised without any increased cost to the consumer.

The responsibilities of the three levels of government often overlap, he said, with no direct relationship between revenue and responsibility.

"We must seek to permit each level of government to stand on its own feet and justify itself to its own taxpayers."

He thought municipalities should be freed from some of their obligations so that property tax could be used for its original purpose—to serve the property.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Everything's coming up roses for the B.C. wage-earner.

Vancouver Board of Trade statistics show a seven per cent labor income gain in the first four months of 1963. The average weekly salary for April in the province was $262.15, the highest in Canada.

Vancouver showed an average weekly salary of $263.53, third highest in the country and better than either Toronto or Montreal.

Remedy for Purifying Blood Nonsense, Old Wives' Tale

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told that drinking cream of tartar with water purifies the blood and at the same time thins it. Is this true? Do you know of any foods rather than drugs which are good for this purpose?—J.C.

Old wives' tale! Nonsense.

This phrase, "purifies the blood" is as vague as the one our grandmothers used: "Eat your spinach because it's good for you."

To this statement some youngsters once retorted: "So it's good for me—but what's WRONG with me?"

BLOOD PURIFIER

The blood is fundamentally a purifying agent. It also has some other purposes. It distributes nutrition throughout the body. It delivers fresh oxygen to the tissues. It heals wounds.

It fights off infection. It carries away waste matter. So when we are told that something or other purifies the blood, it is pretty much like saying that we ought to add something to soap to "purify the soap."

The expression "thins the blood" doesn't mean anything either.

ABNORMAL

There can be such a thing as thin blood or thick blood, as well as blood that clots too readily, or doesn't clot readily enough—but all of these are abnormal conditions.

Before you think about taking foods, or drugs, or anything else, to purify the blood, ask yourself whether your blood is "impure" to start with. Or better yet, if you are determined to try to do something about your blood, find out whether anything is wrong with it at all.

With the exception of a few basic health rules, which most of us know very well, we should laugh off the fads and notions that some people try to tell us about diet, or purifying the blood, or helping our livers, bowels, eyes or whatever.

Dear Dr. Molner: I wear a hearing aid. If a person speaks directly to me, I understand, but not when several talk at the same time. Can anything be done?—E.O.

This is not unusual. Many people with diminished hearing can hear one voice when directed at them, but in a room with other sounds, background music, several conversations, or any sort of din or confusion of sounds, they are lost.

A hearing aid helps, but can do only so much.

In such cases I hesitate to offer any suggestions, except to say that an otologist (ear specialist) may be able to help some. If not, I recommend studying lip-reading, which will help sooner than you think, for even picking up a few words that way will fill in some of the phrases you can't quite distinguish by hearing.

NOTE TO MRS. V. R. I've often heard the old wife's tale, that having a chihuahua dog helps bronchitis, but I have never found a particle of evidence to substantiate it.

World Report

Britain Rejects East Germany

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain Friday refused to accept Soviet notification that East Germany has signed the partial nuclear test-ban treaty, an authoritative source here said.

The refusal, in a note handed to the Soviet embassy here, followed the disclosure that Russia had this week presented the United States and Britain with a list of Moscow signatories of the treaty, including East Germany.

The note pointed out Britain does not accept the notification on the ground it does not recognize East Germany as a state possessing national sovereignty.

Nevertheless, it added, East Germany would have to abide by the provisions of the treaty.

GENEVA (UPI)—U.S. negotiator Charles C. Stelie told the 17-nation disarmament conference his country is ready to accept Soviet proposals that east and west exchange ground observation posts to reduce the risk of surprise attack and "does not insist" that establishment of such posts be combined with U.S. proposals for advance notification of major military movements, aerial observation, mobile ground observation teams and overlapping radar controls.

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP)—The Congo Republic's army Friday installed a provisional government headed by Alphonse Massamba-Débat to succeed the ousted regime of President Fulbert Youlou. The National Assembly was ordered dissolved.

BUCHAREST, N.D. (AP)—Two persons have died and three others are ill after being overcome by fumes while cleaning a cesspool.

The New Democratic Party's formal start of campaigning is expected to be launched by NDP Leader Donald MacDonald at the party's provincial council meeting here next weekend.

Chlorine Hits Tots in Pool

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., (UPI)—Firemen said Friday, that lack of a breeze caused chlorine gas vapor to collect over a San Antonio motel swimming pool, Thursday, sending five children to hospital.

The chlorine vapor leaked from the pool's purification plant, firemen said. None of the children was seriously injured.

Under Scrutiny

NINETY-NINE point nine out of a hundred traffic minors turn into salutes at the sight of a policeman on wheels, or so it surely seems. In Vancouver currently, however, they have the uncomfortable knowledge that they may be under scrutiny they cannot recognize. For in a program organized by the Vancouver Traffic and Safety Council, forty of their fellow citizens in ordinary working garb are watching them and taking their licence numbers.

Letters to offending drivers, drawing their attention to their dangerous habits, are the only immediate consequence. But the police will call on anyone who is observed repeatedly breaking the law.

If the council's spotters were self-appointed anops or busybodies and perhaps out to make mischief, if irresponsible volunteers could get into the act, motorists might regard the program antagonistically and with justified resentment. But the watchers are drivers with excellent records—truckers, salesmen and the like—carefully screened to make sure that personal prejudice or animosity will not enter into the picture.
And so far, the record seems to indicate that they have shown a large degree of tolerance. Not as many letters have been sent to erring drivers as might have been anticipated.

It is early yet to judge how successful the campaign will be. But its sponsors claim that already, in the space of a little over a week, effects are noticeable in a more careful and courteous attitude on Vancouver's streets.

Victoria and other B.C. communities are no less in need of improvement in this respect than the mainland metropolis, and their safety authorities and promoters should be watching the experiment with keen interest.

The 'Sure' Cures

WE HAVE come a long way within the memory of living men and women toward ending fraudulently extravagant sales pitches to the gullible by makers of medicine.

A long way, for instance, since a "celebrated French cure" was advertised in the Colonist as being "sold on a positive guarantee to cure any form of nervous disease, whether arising from the excessive use of stimulants, tobacco or opium or through indiscretion, etc., such as Loss of Brain Power, Wakefulness, Hysteria, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness, Weak Memory, Loss of Power, which if neglected often lead to premature old age or insanity." That was seventy years ago.

Or since, a little farther back, a sarsaparilla preparation was described as a powerful detergent for every portion of the system "when the blood is thick, the circulation clogged and the humours of the body are rendered unhealthy by the gross and greasy secretions of the winter months."

This medicine was called "the permanent cure of the most dangerous and confirmed cases of Scrofula or King's Evil, Old Sores, Boils, Tumors, Abscesses and Ulcers" and also "a sure and reliable remedy for Salt
Rheum, Ring Worm, Tetter, Scald Head, Scurvy, White Swellings and Neuralgic Afflictions."

Then there was the vegetable pain killer, "the greatest family medicine of the age," which was claimed, if taken internally, to cure sudden colds, coughs, etc.; weak stomach, general debility, liver complaints, Asiatic cholera, dysentery and other ailments, and if used externally to cure boils, severe burns and scalds, cuts, bruises and sprains, swollen joints, ringworm, frosted feet, toothache, chilblains and rheumatism.

And there were the pills said to "inevitably cure" a whole alphabetical string of ailments ranging from asthma to skin diseases.

Such advertising belongs, fortunately, to the past.
But we have not travelled the full road yet.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has recently ordered drug manufacturers to prove their claims of effectiveness of antibiotics in a variety of compounds, and to do so within a short time. And makers are complaining that the deadline is too close even to devise tests, let alone carry them out.

The public may well hope that the day is near when the final step will be taken to secure truthfulness in the advertising of medicines—when the test will have to precede the boast.

It May Happen

THE ECONOMICS ministry in Bonn has suggested to shipbuilders starving for orders that they should go into the business of prefabricating homes, relieving the construction industry of excessive demand.

The West German shipyards although in precarious position are said to regard the proposal doubtfully.
So we suppose would our local shipyards, keen as they are to "diversify." House-building perhaps is a little far out of their line. At present.

But how much farther will property taxes ashore have to increase before someone rebels and the first split-level or rancher slides down the ways to ride, at anchor, the tax-free ripples?

"I don't know—it must be 'reduced tension' ever since the nuclear has agreement!"

"This is the B.C. Hydro . . . er . . . the B.C. Electric . . . er . . . the electric and gas offices . . ."

Commonwealth Commentary

A Great Unifying Factor

By ROB MANSFIELD

"It is my belief that in these days when the political and economic bonds which in the past held the Commonwealth together have been severed in order to enable each country to run its affairs in freedom and to realize its genius and personality in a fast-changing world, the universities remain perhaps the greatest single unifying factor in the new Commonwealth."

With these words, Dr. Kenneth Dike, the Nigerian who is vice-chancellor of the University of Ibadan, brought to close the splendid ceremony at which Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother, as chancellor of the University of London, conferred honorary degrees on six distinguished academic leaders of the Commonwealth—Dr.
Dike; Sir Eric Ashby, master of Clare College, Cambridge; Dr. George Edward Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario; Sir Arnot Laksh-manaswami Mudalliar, vice-chancellor of the University of Madras; Sir George Paton,
vice-chancellor of the University of Melbourne; and Sir Lindsay Ride, the Australian vice-chancellor of the University of Hong Kong.

The ceremony had more than usual significance, since it marked not only the opening of the Ninth Quinquennial Congress of the Universities of the Commonwealth, but also the 50th anniversary of the formation of the Association of Commonwealth Universities Bureau (then called the Universities Bureau of the British Empire). It was fitting that the University of London should be host to this congress, for the first congress was held in London, and the University of London has played an important part in the establishment of new universities in many parts of the Commonwealth.

Today, the unity of knowledge, and the mobility of the university teacher are taken for granted. It surely would not have been so without the pioneering work of the Association of Commonwealth Universities. Its influence as a cohesive force between the universities in the various countries of the Commonwealth has been considerable.
Even before the 1959 Commonwealth Education Conference at Oxford, which marked the beginning of a major expansion in Commonwealth educational co-operation, the association was already playing a vital part in co-operation between the universities of the Commonwealth.

The work of the association has many ramifications, but it can be divided into four main activities. It is a clearing house for information about higher education in the Commonwealth; it promotes the interchange of university teachers by maintaining an appointments section which advertises vacancies and arranges interviews; it holds five-yearly congresses, alternately in Britain and in another Commonwealth country, for the discussion of Commonwealth University problems.

And it provides the secretariat for the Commonwealth Scholarship Commission in Britain (the national agency set up to administer the Commonwealth Scholarship and Fellowship Plan in Britain).

The achievements of this organization, which started life in a single-room office and has preserved its financial independence throughout its 50 years, are notable. In the information field, its chief publication, the "Commonwealth Universities Yearbook," has become one of the important academic reference books.

There can be no question of the immense value of the Commonwealth Universities Congresses in promoting the unity of learning, and in strengthening the international character of the academic world. The influence of the congresses extends far beyond the Commonwealth. There were 350 delegates, representing 130 universities, at the recent congress, and many non-Commonwealth observers included the pro-rector of the University of Moscow, the president of the University of Hiroshima, and the presidents of 11 leading universities in the United States.

The day is past when the great academic minds led their library-shuttered lives secluded from the world, all too often largely unconcerned with its destiny. Today, many academic leaders play an important part in national and international life. All those on whom the Queen Mother conferred honorary degrees have won distinction outside, as well as inside, the walls of the university.

The Association of Commonwealth Universities, with its common objective of the unfettered pursuit of knowledge, not only fosters the role of the universities as a unifying force in the Commonwealth;
it enables academic leaders the more easily to become part of a supra-national community, of a true commonwealth of the mind, which gives both depth and perspective to the work they do at a national level.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt met at Ogdensburg, N.Y., 23 years ago today—in 1940—in an historic conference on hemispheric defence. They announced a joint defence commission would be set up to plan the defence of North America.

Although the agreement was never signed, the clauses of the agreement were implemented.

1945—Indonesia was proclaimed a republic.

1896—Gold was found at

From Japan, Taiwan

New Aid for African Nations

By KIP COOPER from Tokyo

JAPAN and the Republic of China hope to help Africans improve their standards of living and ward off Communism.

The foreign ministry here is studying means to balance trade with African states. A ministry report said plans are in progress to increase agricultural purchases from Africa.
For example, Japan would buy more cocoa beans from Nigeria and Ghana, coffee from Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda and peanuts from Nigeria.

As part of the plan, the ministry will send trade missions headed by "big name" businessmen to North African nations to inspect their economic conditions.

The ministry said Japan had been regarding African nations chiefly as an export market.
But it noted these nations still are strongly influenced by their former colonizers such as Britain, France and Belgium.

"Furthermore, economic aid from the United States, Russia and the West European nations carries a lot of weight in the economic growth of the countries," the report stated.
"Japan seems to be lagging behind these countries in advancing into Africa."

The ministry recommended building manufacturing plants to help the economies of the new African states. It hopes to erect automobile, light industry and electric instrument plants. A new spinning mill already is planned for Nigeria by 10 Japanese spinning companies. An iron works is planned for Rhodesia.

Across the East China Sea, the Republic of China is providing advanced agricultural training for Africans who praise Taiwan as an ideal place to train.

The Africans say conditions are similar: Chinese stress labor-intensive rather than mechanized farming. Also, the Chinese give them a friendly reception in contrast to the treatment they receive in Soviet bloc nations.

Chinese have conducted two seminars so far, one in 1962 in French, and a second this year in French and English.

Another seminar starts this month. Nations sending students are Chad, Senegal, Cameroon, Central African Republic, the Congo (Brazzaville), Dahomey, the Ivory Coast, Niger, Madagascar, Rwanda, Togo, Upper Volta, Mauritania, Kan-ya, Libya, Liberia and Zanzibar.

In opening the agricultural aid programs, Minister of Economic Affairs Yang Chi-ueing addressed to the Africans that improving their living standards would check the influence of Communism. Minister Ya-haya Ould Menkouss of Mauritania, representing the African side, said that Africans have political independence. "What is needed now," he said, "is economic independence."

Chinese training emphasizes rice paddy production. African now eat corn, millet, tapioca and potatoes as staples.
But to meet their population burden, they are experimenting with new crops. The Chinese are teaching them cultivation of upland rice, vegetables and sugar cane, use and care of power tillers, paddy soil conservation, seed grading, irrigation and storage.

The first group of African students was frightened when it saw Chinese farmers using water buffalo as draft animals. Africa's Cape buffaloes are fiercer than lions, the students said. Others were amazed at the use of chemical fertilizers. They had believed fertilizer only encouraged weed growth.

As a result of the Chinese instructions, Africans now plan to harness the Nile River for irrigation. Paddy rice is called "swamp rice" in Africa because they use swamps for rice fields. Irrigation will open up more land for rice growing.

In addition to agricultural training, China has sent medical missions to Africa and has initiated fisheries co-operation committees in some states.

The Republic of China's stakes admittedly are large.

Since the Bandung Afro-Asian Conference in 1955, Communist China has made Africa a principal target of subversion.
The Communist New China
News Agency, which many say is an overseas spy network, has opened offices in many African capitals. Radio Peking broadcasts to Africa 35 hours a week in English, 13 hours in French and seven hours in Portuguese, Cantonese and Swahili.

As one African said, "The dragon has set foot in Africa."
The efforts of Japan and free China to raise Africans' living standards and promote their economies is intended to weaken this Communist Chinese offensive.

Masada Excavation

Coveted Prize

By an Observer Staff Reporter

THE FIRST phase of properations has been completed in Israel for the most spectacular archaeological expedition ever made in the Middle East. Excavation will begin in October at Masada, the rock fort near the Dead Sea where Jews made a last stand against the Romans from A.D. 70.

Herod the Great built on the crest of Masada a palace and fort, and when the temple was destroyed by Titus, a core of about 900 disbanded from the defenders of Jerusalem took refuge at Masada and withstood Roman assaults for three years. When, at last, the Romans took the fort by storm they found the defenders had committed mass suicide.

Masada has always been a coveted prize for archaeolo-gists because it is confidently supposed that the defenders would have been no more willing to give up their people's scrolls and documents than they were to surrender their lives; and they had ample time to hide them.

But the physical difficulties of treasure-hunting at Masada are formidable, and until now have daunted explorers. The soaring rock, with a sheer drop seaward of 1,700 feet, cannot be climbed by routes with supplies, let alone by vehicles.

The leader of the present expedition, Professor Yigael Yadin, commands resources which no earlier one could have possessed. Yadin, now professor of archaeology at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, is an ex-soldier, one of the heroes of the Israeli war of independence. Israel's defence forces have come to his aid.

Living quarters for the expedition will be built west of the cliff and with satisfying historical piquancy for the young Jewish nation—near a Roman siege rampart adjoining the ancient camp of the besieging forces 1800 years ago.
Israeli engineers are to build a special road, linking the expedition base with the Beersheva-Arad-Sodom road. Food cooked at Arad will be transported daily to the explorers.
Tanker trucks will keep them supplied with water.

The forward camp on top of Masada will have water pumped up and stored in plastic reservoirs. The expedition staff will climb up by a five-escape style staircase to be built. Helicopters will also be used.

First objective will be Herod's "hanging" palace, a won-derous feat of architecture built on a terraced precipice.
For this another fire-escape staircase will be built and a path cut into the vertical cliff.

Simultaneously, work will begin on the clearance of fallen stones on the ancient arsenal, and on their restoration by a group of professional masons.

These cleared buildings are expected to be ready for excavation when the excavation of Herod's palace is finished.

For Landlocked Bolivia

Outlet to the Sea

By J. MALABRO FERGUSON from London

AFTER nearly a century of frustration, the landlocked Republic of Bolivia, most of it 13,000 feet above the sea, has been offered—without strings —an outlet to the ocean.

The offer has come from Argentina, which has told Bolivia she can have free use of the port of Barranqueras on the Parana River, down which Bolivian ships may ply over the 800 miles of it belonging to Argentina with the same rights as Argentine vessels.

At the same time, Bolivia may use the railways, owned by Argentina, which link the port with La Paz, the highland seat of government, and the low-land centre of Bolivia's new regional boom, Santa Cruz.

April 16, last year, these concessions from an Atlantic power may seem strange, when Bolivia is far closer to the Pacific. But here politics and history enter in.

In the seventies of the last century, Bolivia lost her Pacific coastline to Chile in a war which was none of Chile's fault, but was wished on her by Bolivia and her ally Peru.
The Chileans briefly occupied Peru, but swiftly pulled out, keeping only the Peruvian port of Tacna, which was returned to Peru in 1924 by plebiscite.
In any case, Peru, with its long Pacific coastline, was not unduly alarmed.

But by the same plebiscite, the twin port of Arica, which had once belonged to Bolivia, opted to join Chile, and the port of Antofagasta, well to the south, was irretrievably lost. Bolivia was cut off from the sea.

All this is ancient history, and recently Chile started to show signs of relenting, particularly since the Bolivian revolution of 1952, which threw off forever the centuries' old rule of the country's tiny white, landowning minority and the predominant economic power of the Aymara, Patino and Mestizo (the last of these Argentine) mining companies. Arica was to be a free port for Bolivia and by gones were to be by gones.

His College Souvenir

James H. Meredith, due to graduate Sunday from Ole Miss, poses in Jackson with son, J.H. Jr., and unusual college souvenir—a can that contained tear gas used to quell rioters on campus the night he arrived at school to become first negro to enroll there.—(AP Photofax)

Just Education 'Crazy'

Proving Right Meredith Aim

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — James H. Meredith, due to get his diploma from the University of Mississippi Sunday, said Friday that any Negro who entered the school just to get an education would be "out of his mind."

The 30-year-old Meredith said in an interview:

"I've given many reasons why I went to the university. Now it's been done and I really know why I went. It was part of a bigger thing... to make it a fact any citizen can get what is offered by the state to any other citizen... I didn't gain the right last October. I always had the right. But that right had to be established."

"There are a million Negroes in Mississippi. All would be forever living in the same boundaries unless somebody moved out of them."

Meredith said he does not consider his role any more significant than that of any other Negro, despite the dangers he encountered.

"All Negroes go through this every day," he said.

Meredith's admission to Ole Miss last fall sparked a riot that brought 30,000 troops to the school and resulted in two deaths and hundreds of injuries.

Rites in Grove

Weather permitting, he will get a political science diploma Sunday. The ceremonies are scheduled in an oak-shaded grove that was part of the battleground during the riot. Forecasts say there is a possibility of rain.

Meredith said his plans include three or four years of additional study in Europe, probably England, in political science or law. But immediately after graduation, he said he would try to get the James Meredith educational fund, which he started while at Ole Miss, organized and financed.

Outer Bid 'Politics'

Ole Miss Board Raps Governor

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Governor Ross Barnett was accused Friday of "playing politics" in his last ditch effort to oust Negro student James H. Meredith from the University of Mississippi.

Five members of the state college board said they refused to go along with Barnett because of possible consequences to other college students in the state.

"The situation has once again been used for political purposes," said the five, who were among the board majority that overrode efforts to delay Meredith's graduation, scheduled Sunday.

The board voted 6 to 5 Thursday against Barnett's request that Meredith's diploma be held up pending completion of an investigation into whether his public remarks violated a school ban against inflammatory statements.

The sixth board member who voted against Barnett was out of the state and unavailable for comment.

Anarchy Plot Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight members of a neo-Nazi organization, accused of plotting riots at the scenes of civil rights picketing, have been indicted on charges of advocating criminal anarchy.

The indictments, returned Thursday by a Bronx County grand jury, also charged at tempting to riot and violating the anti-weapons law.

Seven of the defendants pleaded not guilty in state supreme court. The eighth, who testified after signing a waiver of immunity from prosecution, will be arraigned later.

Assistant District Attorney Edmund Farrell said "they planned to overthrow the government, with the idea of segregating Negroes and depriving Jews of citizenship."

Police said the defendants were members of the National Renaissance Party.

Fasting Sons Lose Prison Privileges

TRAIL (CP) — Allen MacLeod, federal commissioner of penitentiaries, said Friday that fasting Sons of Freedom Doukhobors in a federal prison near Agassiz, B.C., have lost their visiting and letter-writing privileges.

The commissioner, with Warden Tom Hall of New Westminster's penitentiary, are here for routine discussions on Doukhobor affairs. The Sons have been fasting for 25 days and while they are sicker now, they are "a lot better off in the last year than ever they were when they were living in freedom in Krestova," their interior B.C. home.

Fledgling Salts Learn as They Go

By DON GAIN

That white-hulled 63-foot crash boat in the Inner Harbor yesterday was the training craft of the Sea Scouts of Belmont, Calif. — the Marion J. Bayne, registered in San Francisco.

The 16-year-old Stefan Comerford who left Victoria with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Comerford, five years ago.

Along with 10 other Belmont Sea Scouts and six officers, he's off on a cruise to Princess Louisa Inlet, Pitt Lake and Vancouver.

PIGGYBACK

The training cruise began when the Bayne left California piggyback style aboard the 450-foot landing ship USS Belle Grove. Unloaded at Seattle, the Sea Scouts took in the Seafair before sailing to Victoria under their own power.

Learning as they go, the fledgling salts, aged 14 to 18, will navigate their vessel back home by way of several West Coast ports for a rendezvous with California Sea Scouts at Steamboat Landing in the Sacramento River.

Revisiting Victoria with sea scouts from Belmont, California, this week was Stefan Comerford, 16, bosun of training craft Marion J. Bayne. Former St. Louis College student left with group yesterday for cruise in B.C. waters.—(Don Gain)

The Bayne saw war service out of Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, ended up as surplus in a field at Mare Island navy base, Vallejo. Acquired by the Sea Scouts seven years ago, it was refitted and refurbished, is now worth $40,000, according to first mate Richard Stenger.

"We've had private donations and help from the navy," he said. "But the actual work was done by the scouts themselves. We've taken the boat on cruises to Southern California and Mexico."

Mr. Stenger, a Stanford Research Institute technician, was in Victoria last year to do the final voicing of the new organ at St. John's Church.

FROM DUBLIN

Stefan Comerford was a St. Louis College student for six years, after coming to Victoria with his family from Dublin, Ireland. His father worked at Yarrow's, is now employed by Bethlehem Steel in San Francisco.

Stefan, who says he misses Victoria, had a reunion with a friend, Darrell Jones, 4804 Cordova Bay.

U.S. Tour Train To Visit Island

A special tour group with its own train, known as the Cariboo County Special, will arrive on Vancouver Island late this month—possibly the first time such a group has visited the island.

The complete train with passengers will board Canadian Pacific's Princess of Vancouver and is scheduled to arrive in Nanaimo 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 29, in Courtenay at 6 p.m. that day and in Port Alberni at 6 a.m. Aug. 30.

The U.S. train will come to Victoria at 3 p.m. Aug. 30 and leave at 10 a.m. Aug. 31 for Nanaimo where it is expected to arrive at 9 p.m. that day. The train will leave Nanaimo at 12:30 a.m. Sept. 1 to return to Vancouver.

One of the highlights of the trip is a special trip to Lake Cowichan from Duncan on the Hillcrest Lumber Co. special train.

The train has operated for the past six years out of Oakland, Calif., and this year will follow a route including Fraser Canyon, Lake Louise, Banff National Park, the Okanagan, Vancouver, Vancouver Island and back to Oakland.

The trip takes 10 days, and is organized by Gilbert and Emily Kneass and Richard Reynolds, all of San Francisco. The train is made up of several lightweight Pullman cars, lounge cars and an open platform car.

Co-operating are these railway companies: Western Pacific, Great Northern, Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway, Canadian Pacific, the E & N.

Island Centres Check Water

COURTENAY (UPI) — A dozen small communities on Vancouver Island were checking their water supplies Friday after it was learned spraying crews have been dumping poisonous weed killer near water intakes.

The poison was discovered Thursday by a 15-year-old boy who complained the drinking water in the small community of Buckley Bay "tasted funny."

A check disclosed the water had been accidentally contaminated by spraying crews of B.C. Hydro. The crews were spraying alder and maple trees along their power lines.

The crews had not been given locations of water intakes along the routes, a Hydro spokesman said.

Residents Friday obtained their water supplies from a variety of other sources.

Search Intensified For Missing Man

A North Galiano man whose mysterious disappearance from his blood-spattered home touched off an intensive RCMP search Tuesday remained on the missing list last night.

Police believe violence played a key part in the disappearance of Joseph George, a widower about 80, who lived by himself in the remote settlement of less than 100 people. Blood was found in the house and immediately outside.

RCMP said there were indications of a disturbance when they searched the house.

The search was intensified yesterday with the use of three navy divers and two RCMP patrol boats.

Personnel from the RCMP marine division were searching the rocky shore of the island while investigators questioned neighbors of the missing man.

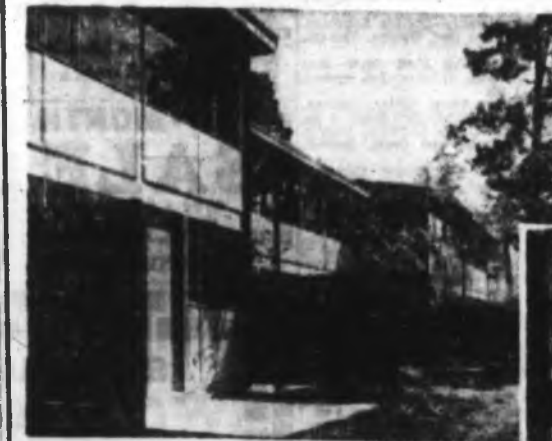

The search was touched off when Ganges detachment of the RCMP received the alarm.

TO SCENE

Police immediately dispatched identification expert S/Sgt. R. D. Walters and S/Sgt. W. Murdoch to the scene.

Additional men were pressed into service the next day to take up the search.

Groos Thinks Pay Boost To End MP Moonlighting

Pay boosts for Canada's MPs will bring an end to parliamentary moonlighting and result in full time representation in the Commons, Victoria MP David Groos said yesterday after returning here from his first session.

He said he had heard of cases where MPs turned to teaching, selling insurance and taking other jobs, neglecting their duties to supplement incomes while living in Ottawa.

"This will stop that. The raises are perfectly adequate."

He supported the pay increases of $8,000 per member, even though he went to the capital prepared to live on the $10,000 which MPs used to get.

EDMONTON (CP)—Jackie Parker returned to Edmonton in enemy uniform last night only to be outdone by the man who understudied him in his nine brilliant seasons with the Eskimos.

With just over three minutes left, his club trailing, 10-16, and play 77 yards away from the Toronto end zone, Canadian Don Getty faked back and pitched the ball perfectly into the hands of Tommy-Joe Coffey about 20 yards from the Toronto goal-line.

Coffey slanted away from two pursuers and raced into the end zone to tie it up. With the crowd of 20,000 sitting in breathless silence, Bill Mitchell booted the convert attempt between the uprights to provide the point that won it, 17-16.

It was the first win in three games for the much-improved

Last night's score: Toronto 18 at Edmonton 17.
Next games: Monday—Toronto vs B.C. Lions at Vancouver; Hamilton at Calgary; Saskatchewan at Winnipeg.

Eskimos, and the second win for Western Conference teams in the two interlocking games played to date in the Canadian Football League.

Parker played well after an inauspicious start in which the Eskimos rode to a 9-0 first quarter lead on two singles and a converted touchdown, scored on a brilliant 50-yard run by Howie Schumm after intercepting a Parker pass.

The former Edmonton star passed his club to the one-yard line in the second quarter and set up a field goal which would have been enough to win. But Wilson, who missed both convert attempts, didn't even get a point.

But Parker didn't get his yardage easy from his old teammates. They made him earn it, and the Eskimos were never behind until they took Getty out and gave rookie James Earl Wright a chance to quarterback.

Wright went in with a 10-9 lead, the tie having been broken by a point from a wide field-goal try by Wilson, and promptly gave Argos the lead by throwing directly to line-backer Butch LaRoue, who lumbered 30 yards for a touchdown which made it 15-10 in the 12th minute of the third quarter.

A conceded point on a field-goal try by Wilson put the Argos ahead by six points, and the Eskimos went back to Getty, who had to start from his own 19-yard line.

He tossed to Coffey for nine yards, pitched out to Johnny Bright for a first down on the 33, and then uncorked his home-run throw to Coffey.

Parker, who went all the way for Argos and gave them a wide statistical edge, completed five passes in a last drive to pull it out but time ran out with play at midfield as Ron Morris was short with a quick kick on the last play.

Island Tennis Finals At Cowichan Courts

DUNCAN — Despite rainy intervals Monday and Wednesday, the Vancouver Island tennis championship matches were scheduled Friday and finals will be played today.

The week-long championship will end today, highlighted by the visit of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Peakes this afternoon. Yesterday Gerold Gray of Tacoma defeated Bob Peckett of Vancouver, 6-2 and 6-3, in the men's single finals of the 75th tournament at the South Cowichan Lawn Tennis Club.

Yankees Trot Out Homers To Shade Chicago Sox, 4-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Blanked on four hits for eight innings by Juan Pizarro, the American League-leading New York Yankees used ninth-inning homers by Tom Tresh, Hector Lopez and Clete Boyer to subdue Chicago White Sox 4-2 Friday night.

The triumph dropped the White Sox into third place, 9½ games off the pace while Minnesota Twins climbed into second, nine behind.

The Twins whipped Washington Senators 7-5 as rookie Jimmie Hall continued his torrid hitting, driving in three runs with a homer and double.

Jim Gentile's homer proved decisive in Baltimore's 4-3 decision over Kansas City.

Home runs by Lu Clinton, Felix Mantilla and Carl Yastrzemski powered Boston to a 7-4 triumph over Cleveland and Los Angeles Angels pushed across three runs in the seventh to beat Detroit 9-6.

METS COME CLOSE
Johnny Podres, Wally Moon and Frank Howard hit homers for Los Angeles Dodgers, but the National League leaders needed a three-run ninth inning rally to down New York Mets 9-7. The tie-breaking run crossed on a throwing error by Jim Hickman.

He first joined the association in 1957, won it again in 1959, lost to Seattle's Tom Green in the 1961 final, and came back to beat McIntyre last year.

PAR SHOOTER
To beat McIntyre yesterday, Blakely tossed 13 holes at Victoria Golf Club in even par, winning the first, third, fifth, sixth and eighth to go five up at the turn with a one-under-par 32.

He finished it with a winning par on the 10th and three consecutive halves, including a bogey five on the 11th.

One Victoria golfer emerged with a class championship, Robbie Robison, playing in the AA final for players 75 and over, beat J. B. Haffner of Spokane, 5 and 4.

Rocks' Sharp Defence Helps Tie Up Series

By JIM TAYLOR
Victoria Shamrocks, relying behind a brilliant and bristling defence, licked New Westminster last night, and tied the Inter-City Lacrosse League best-of-seven semi-final with a 10-8 victory at Memorial Arena.

Fresh from a 15-7 victory which they got in New Westminster Wednesday while barely working up a sweat, the high scoring mainlanders were already looking ahead to a final against Vancouver when they arrived last night. They got a rude awakening.

Behind three times in the first quarter, Shamrocks left it trailing 4-3. But Don Sepka shifted around brother Cliff to tie it early in the second, the first of five times the Rocks had to come from behind to tie.

They tied it for the last time at 10:50 of the final period when Bill Munroe, called up from junior ranks to revitalize a power play that scored three times in four tries, teamed with Ed Kowalyk to set up most inspirational player, and Ashbee and Jack Showers shared the ability and sportsmanship award.

It's significant that all three are defencemen, because whatever success Shamrocks have had or will have depends on that defence.

Last night Kowalyk scored two goals and drew two assists. Showers scored once in an outstanding effort, and Barry Ashbee made the play for two goals.

There is still that 26-game losing streak in New Westminster to contend with Tuesday, and Shamrocks must go without Munroe. But with that defence maybe, just maybe, there is a chance.

Then they almost blew it. Bill Bradley, checking New Westminster's Paul Parnell, drew a five-minute penalty for drawing blood as Parnell ducked into a check.

Rocks were faced with the prospect of playing short-handed the rest of the way, but Barry Forbes stopped whistling drives by Jack Bionda and Billy Jobb and Jack Barclay drew a penalty for slashing at 12:55 to let the clubs finish even.

And the defence came through again.

Most VALUABLE
Ed Kowalyk, earlier named the club's most valuable player, took a pass from Tom Collett at 13:47 and fired a long screen shot over Les Norman's shoulder at 13:47 to send the Rocks ahead, 9-8.

Desperately they tried to stall out the clock, and Forbes beat the big save of the night, beating Parnell on a breakaway with 30 seconds left. Then, with the Rocks seemingly playing it smart and retaining possession, Collett rocketed in alone and beat Norman to end it at 14:45.

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — Amos Alonzo Stagg, a football coach for 70 years who was born even before the game, quietly celebrated his 101st birthday Friday.

Unlike last year when Stagg made a dramatic appearance at a civic birthday party in his honor, he remained in a Stockton convalescent home. He smiled his thanks when nurses wished him happy birthday.

Stagg was an end from Yale on Walter Camp's first all-America team and is the only man ever named to the football Hall of Fame as both a player and coach.

Ticehurst, Weslock in Final

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Bert Ticehurst of Vancouver Friday advanced through two rounds of the Canadian amateur golf championship for a meeting with veteran Nick Weslock of Toronto in today's 36-hole final.

Ticehurst eliminated Keith Alexander of Calgary, 1960 champion, 3 and 1 in the morning and then won handily over 19-year-old Bob Jamieson of Peterborough, Ont., 4 and 3 in the afternoon semi-final.

Weslock, 1957 title winner, was a little less authoritative but made sure things never got out of control. He won 2 and 1 in the morning over Bob Stimpson of Ottawa, who put up a fine game against his formidable opponent.

BIG STRUGGLE
In the semi-final Weslock was carried to the 18th green before getting past the 1962 runner-up, 49-year-old Tom Draper of Royal Oak, Mich.

The galleries of nearly 1,000 over the Riverside course raced from one match to the other in the semi-finals but finally concentrated on the Weslock-Draper tussle.

DRAPER LOSER LEAD
It packed more drama. Draper took a one-hole lead at the fourth, but let the seventh, eighth and ninth and could never catch up although he tripped the margin to a single hole down the back nine.

At the par-three 18th Draper hit the front edge of the green with his tee shot and Weslock was in a slight fairway depression 50 feet short of the green. Nick calmly chipped up six inches from the pin. Draper, needing to sink a 30-foot putt to keep the match alive, was six feet short.

SOUND GOLF
Ticehurst, who has never been this far in the amateur, has played sound golf all the way and needed it in winning over Alexander in the morning.

Alexander took the first hole with a par but lost the fourth by driving into the woods. Ticehurst won the ninth with a par, lost the 10th to Alexander's par and won the 11th with a 15-foot birdie putt.

Ticehurst went two up at the 15th, where Alexander was short with his second, and finished off the match at the 17th. In the afternoon semi-final against Jamieson, Ticehurst raced into a five-hole lead after eight holes. He almost chipped in for an eagle at the second and sank a 30-foot birdie putt over a hump in the green at the eighth.

Ellis Still Ahead

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Wes Ellis retained the lead in the $40,000 Insurance City Open Friday, firing a 67 in the second round for a 36-hole total of 133.

Although Ellis, 31, was nine-under-par over the Wetherfield Country Club course, he was hard pressed by George Bayer who rallied with a blazing 65 for a 134 total. And one stroke farther back were Billy Casper, with 67-68-135, Art Wall Jr., 69-66-135, and Lionel Hebert, 69-66-135.

Both Jack Nicklaus, the 23-year-old PGA and Masters champion, and Julius Boros, 43, the U.S. Open winner, regained their form after disappointing first round scores.

Nicklaus posted a 67 to go with his previous 73 for a 140, and Boros added a 65 to his first round 74 for a 139.

Canada Golfers Win

CP from AP-Reuters

SYDNEY, Australia — Canada won the Australian women's golf foursome championship Friday and set a women's course record doing it—by upsetting the favored British team on the Royal Sydney Golf Course here.

The Canadian pair, Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver and Mrs. Betty Stanhope Cole of Edmonton, snatched the title by scoring a record breaking one over par second round 76 compared with the British pair's 79.

ON COUNT-BACK

Both teams returned the same aggregate of 157 for the 36-hole tournament, but the Canadians were awarded the championship on a "count-back"—a better second round.

The Britons, Ruth Porter and Sheila Vaughan, appeared to have the tournament in their collective pocket until they three-putted on the 36th green.

BIG COME-BACK

They had appeared undefeatable after setting a course record of 78 in the morning, only to have the Canadians beat it by two strokes in the afternoon.

Leading scores in the foursomes were:

157—Gayle Hitchens, Vancouver, and Mrs. B. Stanhope Cole, Edmonton, 81, 76.

157—Ruth Porter and Sheila Vaughan, Britain, 78, 79.

162—Mrs. Judy Evans, Hudson Heights, Que., and Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit, Toronto, 80, 82.

163—J. Fletcher and M. Masten, Australia, 79, 84.

164—A. Laing, New Zealand, and J. Greethalgh, Britain, 85, 79.

Golf Winners

Mrs. M. Grant (1 down), Mrs. N. Morgan (2 up) and Mrs. A. Westcott (all square) were this week's winners, in A, B and C divisions, respectively, of the Ladies' fair competition at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dick Munn, 20-year-old professional from Victoria, sank a 15-foot putt for an eagle three on the 18th green here yesterday for a four-under-par 68 and a share of the first-round lead in the B.C. Open golf championship.

Munn, a professional for three years, is grouped at 68 with professionals Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Abbie Thompson of Toronto and Gary Sloan of Lewiston, Idaho, and amateur Ervin Marlow of Tacoma.

CONSISTENT DUO

Marlow, a 25-year-old school teacher in Tacoma, and Munn were the most consistent of the leaders, both playing the 6,500-yard course in 34-34.

The field of 187 will be trimmed to the low 100 scores after today's round.

Final round of the 54-hole event will be played Sunday.

ONE BEHIND

One stroke back with 69 were pros Bill Thompson of Vancouver and Tom Marlow of Portland. Four players were bracketed at 70 in the chase for top money of $1,000 in the $5,000 tournament. They were pros Gary Fawcett of Burlington, B.C. and Rod Funnell of Spokane, Wash., and Vancouver amateurs Wally Cordingley and Don Bodie.

Funnell, who plays on the U.S. gold trail, was beaten by Leonard last year in a playoff for the title.

Other top scorers from Vancouver Island were Bill Court of Victoria with a 74; Norm Boden of Chemainus with a 75; and Hal Jacobson of Victoria with a 77.

Only Christianity In Our Schools?

Toronto Telegram News Service

"Do you believe Christianity should be taught in public schools, while other religions are not?"

This was one of the leading questions of our times put to delegates to the Anglican Congress in Toronto by the Toronto Telegram News Service. Answers to the question follow:

RT. REV. SOLOMON C. ODUTOLA, Bishop of Ibadan in West Africa:

No. I think that all religions should be taught in public schools. Each religion should be given a chance, and they should fight it out for what is right. I believe that truth would win out and this would be Christianity.

ARCHBISHOP HOWARD CLARK, Metropolitan of Rupert's Land and Primate of all Canada:

Yes, where the population is 99 per cent Christian. But where there is a plurality of religions it's another matter. We must be fair.

Headress Changed

For the first time since 1851, Sisters of St. Ann have adopted a new headress to replace the traditional coil which encircled the face.

The new style, a band of white linen across the forehead, indicates the changing role of the Order's members—the old style restricted lateral vision, important while driving a car.

Cleric Says Church Often Lags Behind

TORONTO (CP)—The press, radio, television and movies sometimes display a more Christian spirit than the church on controversial issues, a delegate at the Anglican congress said Friday.

Rev. Malcolm Boyd, chaplain at Wayne State University, Detroit, told the world assembly that particularly in the current civil rights struggle the mass media of communication "have taught to expose truth about social conditions while the church, as part of an establishment or power complex, has sought to suppress it."

PUBLIC REALM

The church must place itself in the public realm of controversy because "the Gospel itself is controversial," he said. Mr. Boyd also criticized the church for attempting to achieve "a good press" and for seeking to avoid "creative pub-

A Question For Our Times

In the world situation Christianity wants to live in full respect with other beliefs, but also to hold its own. I don't think we should have to hide our Christianity or be denied the right to teach it to our children.

MOST REV. JOOST DE BLANK, Archbishop of Cape Town:

There could be no education in the western world without Christianity, but people have a right to know all. We have to teach Christianity in order to understand our Christian society.

You can't separate education from religion and our children can't help but be brought up with the Christian ethos. After that other religions filter in. Independents should be allowed expression.

REV. ISHAQ MUSSAD of Egypt and Libya:

In Egypt the law is that each religion be allowed the right to teach its own faith in the schools. I think the teaching of a religion should not be left up to the child.

He should be taught a religion in school. When he reaches the age of discretion he can then choose his own, but if he is not taught a religion he will most likely become an atheist. Nobody wants that.

RT. REV. W. L. GRAY, Bishop of Connecticut:

The question is too broad to answer simply. I won't comment. Books have been written and haven't answered it.

In the United States it is now against the constitution to compel people to say the Lord's Prayer in school. In matters of the constitution it is the Supreme Court which has the last say.

JFK Backs Drive For Jet Airliner

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)—President Kennedy has taken action "to assure the effective marshaling of federal and private resources in an urgent drive to develop a 2,000-mile-an-hour passenger plane for commercial use."

Kennedy appointed former world bank director Eugene R. Black as his special adviser on financial aspects of the billion-dollar program to produce the faster-than-sound jet transports.

Share Food with 'Have-Nots', Prelate's Plea

TORONTO (UPI)—The Archbishop of Canterbury opened the 85th Canadian National Exhibition Friday with a plea for the "have-nations" to share their food supplies with the world's "have-nots."

Dr. Michael Ramsey, spiritual leader of the Anglican church, made the appeal after CNE president, Jack Fraser, had urged Canada to play its part to work out with other nations a method of better food distribution for all people.

"Heartily I support this far-seeing president's plea to bring help to those countries which need food," the archbishop said.

"If, without patronage and colonialism this can be done," he added, "let it be done, because only in partnership and loving assistance are we to avoid disaster for future generations."

In his opening remarks, Dr. Ramsey told the crowd of more than 5,000 packed around the handbell that the exhibition "is a mirror of the creativity, imagination and skill of the people of Canada."

The archbishop praised what he called Canada's "glorious asset" of space. It is a happy thought, he said, that no matter how many new farms and cities sprout up, there will still be vast areas left "to boggle the imagination."

The archbishop, cloaked in his crimson cloak, eddied the ceremony by pressing a button which sent aerial bombs high into the air, streaming mauve, blue and white smoke.

Twelve Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers stood ceremonial guard on each side of the band shell, which was lined with civic and church dignitaries, flanked by the famed Scots Guards band.

seventeen Fashion Show Coming Soon!

... see this gay, young sportive look for yourself—a look that Young Sophisticates will welcome with open arms!

How to explain it—first of all it's separates co-ordinated to the "nth" degree in off-beat colours such as polished putty, ginger and bootblack black. Imagine what you could do with four, five or six pieces!

The long-sleeved jersey pullover in black, plays a very active part in assembling a wardrobe of checked or striped vests, straight sleeveless tunics, sleeveless pinafores, dresses front laced from a deep V, pants that are slim with a mere suggestion of a bell bottom.

Add to all this a wide-brimmed felt hat with one side tucked flat against the crown, rather like the Australian Anzac hat, a peak-cap of leather with fur ear lugs, or a jaunty pork-pie of check fabric.

Undercore these fast-moving fashions with split 'n' polish boots that go to all lengths... plain or patterned stockings... make-up very pale... hair that is short and smooth—all of this and you have the "Mary Quant Look"... exclusive with EATON'S in Victoria! The best part of all in every piece can be purchased separately as your penny-saving permits.

Tourists Find

Hospitality Not Dead Yet

A kindly and decisive Saanich baker has shown an elderly California couple that old-fashioned hospitality is not yet dead in Victoria.

Lyle Sauter, proprietor of the A and L Bakery at Shelbourne Plaza, came to the rescue after the elderly Fresno, Calif., pair, who are staying at the Empress Hotel without a car, caught a city bus for Mount Tolmie only to be let off at the end of the line at Richmond and Cedar Hill Cross Roads.

They walked to Shelbourne Plaza and were telling a clerk at Mr. Sauter's store of their disappointment at not getting to the top of the mountain when Mr. Sauter overheard.

He promptly quit work, took the couple to his house, picked up his wife and took the couple on a tour of Victoria in his car all afternoon. Then he took them home for coffee and back to the hotel.

"He's like that. He's done several things like that," said an acquaintance, who brought the incident to the attention of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Windows To Glow

Society for the Maintenance and Preservation of Craigdarroch Castle will install floodlighting in the interior of the round tower on the north side of the building to illuminate the stained glass windows.

Mayor E. B. Wilson will switch on the new lighting Aug. 17 at 8 p.m., and paid-up society members will be entertained at supper in the castle afterwards.

Three Victorians

Senators Named To University

Four new appointments to the Senate of the University of Victoria were announced here yesterday by Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

They are: Dr. Geoffrey F. Homer, Newton D. Cameron and Franklin F. Levis, all of Victoria; and Mrs. Marion T. Ricker of Nanaimo.

All the appointments are effective Sept. 1 for a three-year term.

Dr. Homer has been chief of surgery at Veterans' Hospital here since its founding.

He obtained his medical degree from Manitoba and later his FRCS in London. He is past president of Victoria Medical Society.

Mr. Peterson said that in connection with his work at the hospital Dr. Homer is involved to a considerable extent in the teaching of surgery, and has for many years been interested in education.

Mr. Cameron, now president of Victoria Plywoods Ltd., spent two years at Victoria College and was president of the student council. He has a Bachelor's degree from Stanford, where he specialized in economics, and has maintained an active interest in planning for the University of Victoria.

MASTER'S DEGREE

Mr. Levis is assistant superintendent of education, in charge of instruction, and has been actively engaged in education work for many years. He attended Victoria College, headed the student council, and later received a Master's degree from UBC.

After a successful teaching career, Mr. Levis became an inspector of schools in 1946. He was later made chief inspector, before being appointed to his present position. He has been active in Victoria College alumni association.

LIFE MEMBER

Mrs. Ricker, a former president of B.C. School Trustees Association, served as a school trustee for many years and is now a life member of the provincial association. She is also trustee representative on the B.C. Council on Education.

Holder of a nursing degree, she was active in this field for some years. She has many other educational and public interests including membership in the B.C. Educational Television Association and Vancouver Island Regional Library Board.

She is married to Dr. W. E. Ricker, well-known biologist, who is at present serving a term with the Fisheries Research Board in Ottawa.

Founder Dies Here

James V. Cordick, 77, of 864 Wollaston, one of the founders of Clark & Cordick, well-known Victoria flour and feed firm, died here Friday.

Survivors include Miss Kathleen Duffin, of Victoria.

Prayers will be offered at 7 p.m. Sunday in McCall Brothers Chapel. Rev. Lewis MacLellan will celebrate mass at 10 a.m. Monday in the Queen of Peace Church, Old Esquimalt Road. Burial will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Weatherman Optimistic

Weatherman William Mackie was "relatively optimistic" yesterday that it will be mostly sunny and warm in Greater Victoria today and Sunday.

Daytime temperatures near the shoreline should range in the low 70s but reach near 80 degrees farther inland, he said.

Women Job-Seekers Decrease Since June

Visitors For Keith

Down from Campbell River yesterday for a visit with their nine-year-old son Keith, who will be in St. Joseph's Hospital another two months recovering from severe gasoline burns to the back, are Mr. and Mrs. William Barker and their daughter, Shelly, 11 years old, seen here entering hospital. Large mounds of mail are now coming to hospital for the injured boy.—(Ryan Bros.)

The number of job-seeking applicants at the women's unit of the Victoria office of the National Employment Service has decreased slightly since the end of June, the manager reports.

George Bevis, manager of the Victoria office, said there are still many leaving school and seeking jobs, and a steady increasing number of married women is returning to the labor market.

Many applicants for office work cannot meet requirements of the employers who specify Grade 11 or 12 education and good training in vice has decreased slightly since the end of June, the manager reports.

He said in the past few weeks appointments for more than 500 men and women have been arranged by the employment office for Woodward's Stores Limited. Preliminary interviews are being held for the firm's new Mayfair Plaza shopping centre.

$25,000 Drive Opens

A campaign has begun to raise some $25,000 from Victoria businesses for tourist promotion of Victoria and Vancouver Island.

G. Conway Parrott, president of Victoria Visitors Bureau, last night said letters went out last week to all businesses from which contributions are being sought in the campaign.

About 300 smaller firms are being approached, and special letters have gone to some 60 larger ones.

"We expect full understanding by all concerned of the value of the tourist dollar," Mr. Parrott said.

First $12,500 raised in the campaign is to go to the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau, which publicizes the whole Island. Everything more than that goes to the Victoria Visitors Bureau, which promotes tourism in the Victoria area.

MEAN $25,000 The $12,500 the Vancouver Island bureau is to get would actually mean $25,000 for that bureau, since the B.C. government contributes 50 cents of every dollar the Island bureau spends.

7,000 People Expected At Saanichton Fall Fair

Workers are getting the Saanichton fair-grounds ready for the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society's 95th annual Fall Exhibition—a Labor Day weekend event which officials think will draw more than 7,000 persons.

Buildings and barns at the fair grounds are being repaired and a show ring is being built for beef cattle exhibits, Robert McVey, secretary, said yesterday.

Horse stalls will be white-washed next week, when the grounds are given a general cleaning.

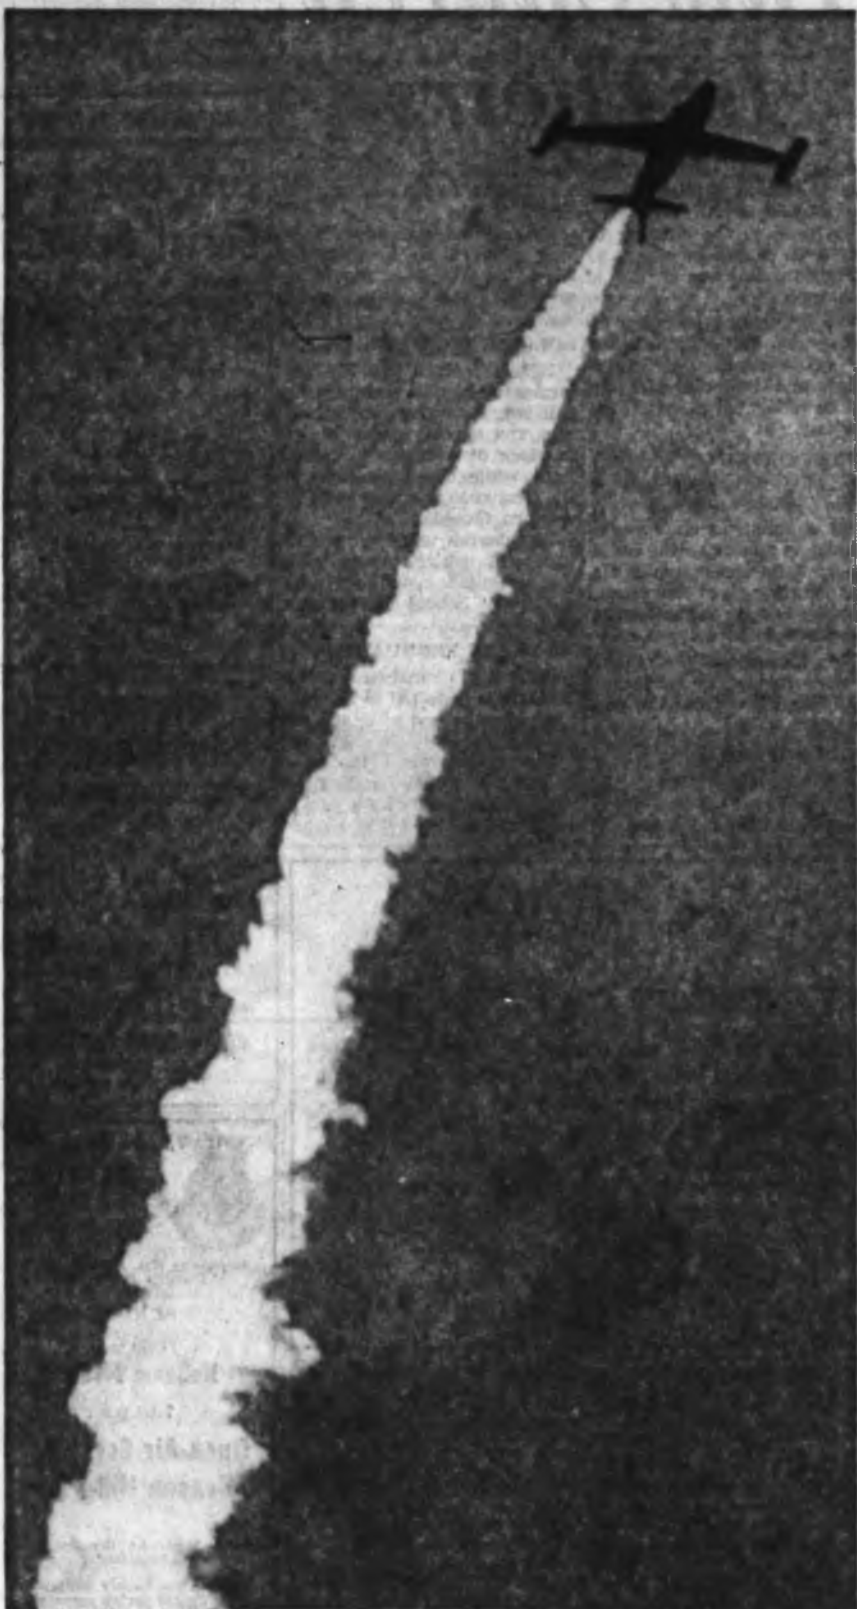

Highlights of the exhibition, held Saturday, Aug. 31, and Monday, Sept. 2, will be the horse show managed by A. W. Mesher, under the jurisdiction of the Canadian Horse Shows Association, and increased prizes for the Jersey dairy cattle breed, expected to draw a lot of top Jersey from the Lower Mainland, Mr. McVey said.

Deadline for entries in the 27 sections will be Aug. 26, but a number of entries have started coming in already, he said.

There will also be 44 club competitions and Highland piping and dancing events, the latter, starting at 11 a.m. Monday.

Schedule for the horse section: 10 a.m. Saturday—saddle horse classes—preliminary judging for trail horse and working western. 1:30 p.m. Saturday, final judging for trail horse, working western, western pleasure, western pleasure horse, riding class, open stake race, clover leaf barrel race and flag race. 4:30 p.m. Saturday (and 4:30 p.m. Monday), demonstrations by dog trainer Michael Williams, to add variety to the show. 1 p.m. Sunday—junior horse show—equitation—hunting seat (over jumps), equitation. 10 a.m. Monday—breeding and halter classes.

Up, up, toward the sun goes the Red Knight

RCAF Thrills Thousands

Here Come the Hawks!

By DON GAIN

"Here they come!" was the electrifying cry on the waterfront yesterday as thousands waited on beaches, banks, benches and boulders for the RCAF's Golden Hawks.

It was a bit of a wait due to a hitch in the program, but nobody seemed to mind.

The crowd just relaxed in the hot sun and the cooling breeze, and enjoyed the general cheerfulness of families and children.

The show started with a concert of the RCAF Edmonton band, not in the bandshell as first reported, but on Finlayson Point.

PASSES, ROLLS

The air show began with high speed passes and rolls by three Voodoo jets from 409 Nighthawk squadron, RCAF Station Comox. It seemed for seconds they would break the sound barrier, but they didn't.

Squadron commanding officer Wing Cmdr. Grahame Inglis, who flew with them, saw to that but he poured on enough speed to give the crowd its first thrill.

Three parachutes burgeoned white in the blue sky as Albatross aircraft flew over and a Vertol H-21 helicopter took off from Finlayson Point.

A crash boat made for the downed parachutes as they floated in front of the crowd. Soon they were safe aboard.

The helicopter gave a demonstration of its manoeuvrability while the Albatross landed on the water and started in a spectacular jet-assisted takeoff.

The Red Knight, FO J. W. Morin, zoomed in with a roll off the top of a loop for a 12-minute show in his bright red T-33 Silver Star jet trainer.

CROWD GASPED

The crowd gasped and gasped as he did the Cuban eight, clover leaf, hesitation, rumba and vertical rolls, loops and inverted flying up to 570 miles an hour.

And then came the heart-stopping Golden Hawks.

"There they are," cried a little boy from his father's arms.

And for 20 minutes they zoomed, rolled, looped, passed, turned at speeds up to 650 miles an hour and sometimes only six feet apart.

A brilliant bombburst, like an exploding fire rocket, ended the show and the crowd went home—excited, sunburned and satisfied.

Robert Buie Top Skater

Robert Buie won Victoria's first 30-mile roller-skating race at the Esquimalt Municipal Sports Centre Thursday night in two hours, 22 minutes and 18 seconds.

Eight of the 15 starters finished the required 30 laps.

NEW CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH ON PANDORA

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

I have been sitting in church pews recently, a salutary and educational experience for any clergyman.

It is said a preacher will travel across a continent to preach a sermon, but will not walk across the street to hear one. It is also alleged preachers listening to a sermon always feel they could have done it much better. Actually I have heard some splendid sermons. But I wondered how many people go to church to worship God?

One Sunday elderly people who should have known better cackled and gossiped, so that a holy silence was impossible, and reverence was spoiled. I recalled bitterly how we children used to be spanked for such behavior! There is too much casual sauntering into church, unprepared for a spiritual crisis.

I felt humble, too. How often I must dimly have failed people by my conduct of worship.

ship. Was it at times drab and disorderly instead of a work of holy skill? Did it present the picture of a Godless Christianity and leave spirits starved for the wonder and glory of God?

In one church the service and sermon were gloriously inspiring, but I hated the intrusion of a full five minutes' of banal announcements. Sometimes the prayers lacked relevance or form, with dead, hackneyed clichés, barren in language and content, without mental sweep.

It is ironic that free churches opposed liturgy to the people with maximum participation, but have ended with shutting them out. The preacher has even usurped "the people's amen" to the prayers by having it out himself, to tell everyone he is finished.

Since the offering commemorates the bringing of the gifts of the people, can it not be more obviously related to Holy Communion? Indeed, is not the structure of the whole service supposed to be Eucharistic?

How good it is to hear the psalms being sung in many churches, as they should be. Throughout Christendom there has been a liturgical renewal which is not merely a recovery of primitive forms of Church worship but a desire to give body and expression to dogma and faith, and to make God real to man.

Port Workers Get Young Chaplain

MONTREAL (CP)—The youngest Roman Catholic priest in Montreal has been given one of the most challenging jobs in the diocese—chaplain to the 6,000 port workers employed along the 12-mile waterfront.

It's the first assignment for Rev. Claude Desrochers, 23, the first chaplain for the port workers.

Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, selected Father Desrochers and obtained permission from the Vatican to ordain him before his 25th birthday, the usual minimum age for ordination, after receiving several requests from port workers for the services of a chaplain.

Father Desrochers, who describes his job as experimental and temporary, has set up an office in the heart of his parish and met most of his parishioners.

LUNCH TIME

He gets acquainted with them at lunch time, at their favorite haunts.

They include longshoremen, cargo checkers, clerks and security guards. The thousands of seamen who visit the port each year do not fall under his jurisdiction, but are helped by chaplains at the Catholic Sailors' Club and the Montreal Sailors' Institute.

They're Building It This Church Is Theirs

Members of the congregation of Central Baptist Church are pitching in to help keep costs down in the building of a $170,000 church building and a $30,000 renovation of the old building.

The new church is going up beside the old church building on Pandora near Blanshard, and the old building will be renovated to match the new one.

MONEY SAVED

In an unusual money-saving tactic, church officials have hired a construction superintendent to supervise the building and purchase materials, thus cutting out overhead costs by being contractors for their own building.

This also allows the church to save money by soliciting volunteer labor from the congregation.

READY IN FEBRUARY

Started in mid-June, the building is expected to be completed by the end of next February.

Christianity In Transition and Evolution

Time is an entity and universally natural. During ten thousand years, craftsmen have pondered and recorded their impressions. The preceding centuries are shrouded in uncertainty. Human nature has advanced far beyond the dream of a new life in a distant heaven. We now seek good manners, and the rewards of good government, providentially on display.

40,000 Marchers Expected

The National Council of Church expects "upwards of 40,000" while church members from all parts of the country to join Negro demonstrators in the Aug. 28 "March on Washington."

The forecast comes from the Rev. Dr. Robert W. Spike, executive director of the council's newly formed commission on religion and race.

Dr. Spike says that state and local councils of churches, denominational agencies and local church congregations in many communities are chartering planes and buses to bring delegations to Washington.

Their purpose, he says, is "to demonstrate our solidarity in support of racial justice" and to show that discrimination "is a national moral issue and not a regional problem."

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Today is the saddest day of my life. I'm amazed that I can sit down and write a letter after what I've been through, but perhaps it will be good therapy.

This morning we buried my three-year-old niece. Betsy was a beautiful, bright-eyed darling with golden curls. Last week when we saw her at a family picnic she was full of fun and laughter. Everyone adored her.

Today Betsy is dead because her mother left a bottle of pills in the medicine cabinet. The little girl, thinking the pills were candy, ate every last one of them. My sister-in-law found Betsy lying unconscious on the floor and rushed her to the hospital but it was too late.

It is heartbreaking to lose a child through illness, but to lose a child because of carelessness is too much to bear. Please print this letter for other mothers to read. It may save some precious young lives.—AUNT MAE.

Dear Aunt Mae: It is baffling that some mothers will carry a sweater to school when the weather unexpectedly turns cold yet these same mothers will leave cleaning fluid in pop bottles, pills that look like candy on bathroom cabinet shelves and loaded guns in closets.

Every mother who is reading these words should check shelves, drawers and closets for potential instruments of death. Remember that a large bottle of aspirin, if taken all at once, can kill a child. Remember, too, that children can climb on chairs and wash basins, and reach top shelves. The only safe place for medicines (and guns) is under lock and key.

Thank you for writing, Aunt Mae. It's good to be reminded of what we think we already know.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17 and going with a boy 19 who works in a minor capacity for my father. My father never liked Alex but he never told me I couldn't go out with him.

Last night Alex came by to take me to a baseball game. I was shocked when I saw him. His hair, which was always slicked back, had a definite curl. You might say it was actually kinky. I asked him what he did to it and he said his sister gave him a permanent.

My folks discussed Alex's hair this morning. My dad gave me no orders but he did say, "I think that kid is nuts." Do you feel the hair job is reason enough to stop going with him?—PIE FACE.

Dear Face: The boy sounds so flakey that if you don't figure the hair job is reason enough to drop him just wait a few days. Curly-locks will do something else—soon.

Dear Ann: We have some

Schmidt and family, Mr. Donald Hastings, Mrs. T. Isbister, and Mrs. J. Isbister, Denman Island.

By Plane to East

To visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Winch at Don Mills, Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Harold O'Reilly of Oak Bay left by air Thursday morning for Toronto. While in the East the O'Reillys will see many relatives and friends in Ottawa, Montreal and the Laurentians. En route home about Oct. 1 they will spend a few days with their son, Clifford and family at Calgary.

Miss Vennberg Feted at Party

Mrs. M. Hundley entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her home on Eastdown Drive in honor of Miss Sigrid Vennberg whose marriage to Mr. Glenn Hundley takes place today.

Miss Marcia Hundley presented the bride with a beautiful corsage of white heather centred with a yellow orchid. The groom's mother, Mrs. Roy Hundley and grand mother, Mrs. W. F. Emery received carnation corsages. The gifts were contained in a miniature schoolhouse as both bride and groom are teachers. Games were enjoyed during the evening and a buffet supper was served.

Guests included Mrs. R. J. Fitzsimmons, Mrs. N. Parfitt, Mrs. G. Storie, Mrs. J. McLoughlin, Mrs. J. McIntosh, Mrs. F. Atkin, Mrs. P. Sands, Mrs. E. Sands, Mrs. J. Squire, Mrs. G. Gower, Mrs. D. B. Sparling, and the Misses Diane Fitzsimmons, Elizabeth Fuller, Diane Wiper, Gail Storie, Frances Sands, Marcia Hundley, Gail Dewitt and Pat Hundley.

VARY CHOICE

Pack and Carry sandwiches for office, "heavy job" or picnic needn't be humdrum. To keep them interesting, vary the choice of bread, the fillings, and also the butter or margarine mixture. For instance, to a half a cup of creamed butter or margarine add: ¼ cup shredded snappy cheese for plain or devilled ham sandwiches; one tablespoon horse-radish for sliced tongue or cold roast beef; ¼ cup minced watercress or ¼ teaspoon curry powder for chicken or chicken salad sandwiches.

IN THE UPLANDS

Graciousness, Dignity and Half an Acre of Privacy

I have the privilege of offering one of the finest homes in the Uplands combining features rarely found together in any one property. The selective buyer who can be seriously interested will appreciate intimate details beyond the compass of advertising space. Apart from a delectable living room, this home provides a 21-ft. morning room, or den, with fireplace, of most intriguing charm. It is a two-storey home, embracing four exceptional bedrooms, two bathrooms plus a basement toilet. The kitchen is finely appointed and modern. Maintenance, equipment, heating and all facilities are beyond reproach. The property is offered at $42,000, is clear title and can be shown by appointment only. Its seclusion precludes any possibility of a "drive-by" address.

Edmonton Wedding Of Interest Here

Edmonton, Alta., and Victoria Davidge, the groom's sister, and bridesmaids, Miss Shirley Naylor, bride's sister, and Miss Beth Lewis, Edmonton. They carried Colonial bouquets of white chrysanthemums and carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in an exquisite gown of satin peau, styled with peplum over front panel and lily point sleeves. Lace appliques enhanced the scoop style neckline and peplum. A single white rose held her bouffant veil. She carried a white Bible with mauve and white orchids and lily of the valley.

Bouffant skirted gowns of turquoise peau de soie were chosen by matron of honor, Mrs. Bill Davidge, the groom's sister, and bridesmaids, Miss Shirley Naylor, bride's sister, and Miss Beth Lewis, Edmonton. They carried Colonial bouquets of white chrysanthemums and carnations.

Mr. Ted Butterfield proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in the Fiesta Room. Mr. Bill Davidge was master of ceremonies and the bride's sister, Shirley, was soloist.

For her going-away outfit the bride chose a turquoise wool worsted suit and beige and black accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Smit will reside in Edmonton.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. Naylor and Shirley, Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. L. Millenaar, Mt. Vernon, Wash.; the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Alice Naylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Moen and Brian, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Naylor, all of Elgin, Man., and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mears, Winnipeg, Man.

Montreal Plans To Build Island For World's Fair

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal is providing new land for its 1967 world's fair by doing some island-building in the St. Lawrence River.

The bold plan involves filling in shallow and unused portions of the river between two shipping lanes—the port's navigation channel on the north side and the St. Lawrence Seaway on the south.

The result is to be two islands of 310 acres each, separated by a channel of as yet undetermined width and depth.

TO BE ENLARGED
One of the islands, St. Helen's, already exists but will have to be enlarged greatly from its present 135 acres. The other island, to be called Notre Dame, will be a new creation except for a cluster of tiny islets hugging the north wall of the seaway.

The federal government gave its approval in July after reaching agreement with the city on construction of an upstream dike as an ice-control measure and safeguard against flooding.

Work on the fair site started immediately afterward. The site must be ready for actual construction of the fair by June 30, 1964.

WON'T AFFECT FLOW
Because the current flow and water level in the shipping lanes must remain unaffected, it was decided that two islands—with the channel between them providing an alternate route for water flowing downstream into the Montreal port area—would be preferable to a single mass of land.

In most of the area earmarked for filling, the river ranges from five to 15 feet in depth and is full of shoals.

CITY PARK
St. Helen's, at present a city park in the middle of the St. Lawrence, will be the closer of the two world's fair islands to the Montreal side of the river.

Notre Dame is to extend along the outer wall of the St. Lawrence seaway, probably for at least the entire two-mile distance between the Victoria and Jacques-Cartier bridges. It will be long and thin, St. Helen's short and fat.

The area Notre Dame will occupy had been claimed by the suburban municipality of St. Lambert but was awarded to Montreal by a recent decision of the provincial cabinet.

Transporting fill to the site is expected to be something of a challenge. It is estimated that from 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 cubic yards of earth and rock will be needed, and the only access, apart from barges, is by the two congested bridges bordering the site.

TO EXTEND SUBWAY
There is no scarcity of ideas as to how people should be transported to the fair during its six-month stand from April to October, 1967.

Two definite projects are the extension of Montreal's subway system under the river by a three-mile line with stations on the fair grounds and in the south-shore suburbs of St. Lambert and Longueuil, and a new low-level bridge between the western tip of the expanded St. Helen's island and the city.

The bridge would be situated just upstream from the head of navigation in the port. A similar bridge is to be built between St. Helen's and Notre Dame islands.

FOR PEDESTRIANS
For the duration of the fair, these bridges will just be for pedestrians and buses. Private vehicles are to be banned from the fair grounds and present plans call for provision of parking space for 20,000 cars on the north side of the river and 8,000 on the south side.

As at least half the fair's visitors—present estimates range between 35,000,000 and 50,000,000—are expected to come from the United States, the provincial government proposes to widen the 30-mile highway between New York state and Montreal's south-shore suburbs to four lanes and link it to the world's fair area and the St. Lawrence River bridges by an expressway.

However, there seems to be less certainty about plans for road improvements in the city itself, except for the projected widening and extension of University Street from the central downtown district to the new bridge.

CAN TAKE FERRY
The city's only expressway goes nowhere near the projected fair site, Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the city's executive committee, said recently plans for two new expressways have been held up pending the elaboration of a provincial master plan for highway access to the fair.

The city administration has been stressing the subway in public statements about transportation improvements and it is obviously hoped that the underground system, under construction since the spring of 1962, will be the Montrealer's favorite conveyance to the fair.

SHORT FERRY RUN
But a short ferry service—St. Helen's Island is directly opposite the main waterfront district—is also being considered, along with a monorail line. The monorail would encircle the fair grounds and connect them with a part of the city west of the underwater subway route.

Another problem to be faced is lack of fast transportation between the fair grounds and Montreal's international airport, 12 miles west in suburban Dorval. Road improvements are expected to be part of the answer and a helicopter service is also reported to be under study.

A city hall source said, however, that any monorail, ferry or helicopter services would be commercial operations. The subway and its affiliated bus and trolley lines were likely to be the only public transit owned and operated by the city.

Prisoners Captured
ST. VINCENT DE PAUL (UPI)—Provincial police report the capture of two prisoners Thursday in the north shore community of St. Francois de Sarré. First reports said several shots were fired but no one was hurt.

Richard Dandurand and Richard Martineau, escaped from the prison's medium security Leclerc Institute earlier.

25 Killed In Bus Fire
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (Reuters)—Twenty-five persons were killed and 14 injured Friday when a bus caught fire in Lagoa Santa, about 240 miles north of here.

There were 40 persons aboard the bus that was returning from a party.

Method Queried

Work-Welfare Stand Backed

City hall spokesmen here endorsed Courtenay Mayor William Moore's campaign to force able-bodied jobless men to work for welfare but they felt the method used could be wrong.

They indicated any arbitrary decision to require all applicants to fill a specific job in return for welfare assistance could result in worsening rather than improving the situation.

City welfare administrator William Hooson said his office, and most other municipal welfare offices, have for years cut off payment to proven deadbeats. But this was done "on a selective basis," not across the board in the manner being attempted by Courtenay.

He said all welfare recipients capable of working—now totalling 56 single persons and 49 families in Victoria—had to make bona fide efforts to obtain work. Failure to accept suitable job opportunities without good reason resulted in cutting off payments.

MUST BE FAIR
Mr. Hooson said: "But this happens infrequently because it isn't very often that there are that many jobs around and, secondly, you have to be fair and make sure the man is capable of doing the work. It's not every 50-year-old man, especially if he's been an office worker, who can go berry picking all day."

Lightning Fires Curbed by Rain

There were 253 forest fires burning in B.C. Friday, the B.C. forest service reported.

The service said most new fires in B.C. in the week ended Friday were started by lightning and kept small by the accompanying rain, along with fast work by mobile suppression crews and aerial bombing.

NOT SERIOUS
Therefore, the situation was not as serious as the number of new fires in the week—372—would suggest. There were 265 fires extinguished in the week.

When the week ended some 350 men—both forest service and logging company firefighters—were on the fire lines.

Estimated cost of forest fires this week was $50,000.

Good weather was anticipated and the forest fire hazard, which has been moderate, was expected to rise gradually in the southern parts of the province in the coming week.

There have been 1,811 forest fires in the province to date this year for an estimated cost of $311,300, compared with 1,362 and $272,900 to date last year.

107 NEW FIRES
In the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island, there were 107 new fires during the week.

There have been 308 fires to date this year for an estimated cost of $94,500, compared with 202 and $44,500 last year.

SHOULD HAVE READ THE WANT-ADS FIRST!

The route of an uninformed job-hunter, home-seeker or shopper of any kind is long and wearisome. More times than not it means a waste of time, effort, energy and shoe leather.

WHY START OUT UNINFORMED? Only a few minutes spent reading the Classified Advertisements in the local daily paper will most likely give you the very information necessary to bring a QUICK solution to your "wanted" problem—whether you want a job, a new home, some needed item or service, or even information concerning a lost article or pet. The habit of reading the Classified Advertisements has saved the soles of many a pair of shoes—not to mention nerves, energy, time and money!

1962 Sun Shows Now

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRMS

Flowering shrubs and trees have blossomed rather better than normally this year, probably because of the long stretches of brilliant sunshine last summer and fall. The effect was early ripening of the wood, building up plenty of flowering buds for this year.

Some of our summer flowering shrubs are now due for their annual pruning, notably those which flower best on young wood: Mock Orange, Deutzia, and to a lesser extent, the Diervilla are typical examples of this group. Remove straggly growths first, then thin out some of the older wood to make room for vigorous new flowering shoots. As with all shrub pruning, try to maintain the natural habit of the shrub in question; nothing looks worse than a so-called pruning which is nothing more nor less than a crew cut!

The majority of shrubs can be raised quite easily by cuttings, and this is a very good time of the year to take and root them. Firm shoots of this year's growth are best, and the prunings of Mock Orange and similar shrubs will root readily if trimmed up, lower leaves removed, and with the cut end moistened and dipped in a hormone rooting powder. They can be inserted in a shady bed of sandy soil in the open garden, or in a lath-covered coldframe.

This is a good month for the propagation of other plants besides shrubs. There is still time, for instance, to increase border carnations by layering, and it is certainly worthwhile to raise some new young plants for the oldsters have a habit of becoming leggy and untidy after a few years. Old plants, too, come down more readily with disease and become sources of infection to other plants.

The growth habit of the border carnation lends itself to the layering process, and it is quite easy to raise a number of young plants from just a few old ones. Select the most conveniently-placed outer shoots, remove the lower leaves, and after making a sloping cut halfway through a joint, peg the layer down, burying the half-cut portion. Water well in dry weather, and by the end of the season the rooted layers may be cut free from the parent plants and planted up elsewhere. Perennial pinks don't need layering, as they can be propagated easily by pipings, which are simply slips which are pulled off at a joint rather than being cut off, as with ordinary cuttings.

Late chrysanthemums in pots will require feeding from time to time in order to encourage good growth after each stopping. No matter how rich the original potting soil, constant watering washes away much of the plant food through the drainage hole, and this must be replenished.

As with the feeding of most pot plants, a little common sense goes a long way. Never feed according to any kind of fixed routine, but go by the appearance of the plants. For example, if quite a bit of soft, sappy growth is being produced, no nitrogen is needed, but sulphate of potash may be given to make for a more balanced growth. If the foliage is pale and the stems thin, more nitrogen is needed, preferably in an organic, balanced fertilizer such as Alginure Liquid Feed or one of the liquid fish fertilizers.

JOHN CROSBY'S Guest Finds

200,000-Word Film Epic

John Crosby is on vacation. In his absence his column will be carried on by guest writers.

By TONY RANDALL.

It's not often that a guest column carries a new scoop along with it. However, I'm taking advantage of John Crosby's well-earned (?) hiatus to announce my next film project. Please, no applause. You'll drop the paper and won't be able to read further.

Since making the first film for my own production company, The Brass Bottle, I've been on a search for "name" properties to bring to the screen. I confess, it's been rather a chore. By the time I've read a book or seen a play, I discover that 20th Century Fox or MGM has been there before me, waving $400,000 cheques at the author.

Since all I have to wave is a hand with five badly-bitten fingernails, I'm realist enough to know that the only thing I'll get from this is five badly-written fingernails.

But good things come from bad. The other night, while brooding, I came upon a best-seller that no one has ever bought for films. Not only a best-seller but probably the second best-seller of all time. Yes, I'm going to film the dictionary. (Pause for effect.)

Gawd, you say, the man's mad. But you're wrong. After all, the first thing you're told is that the most important element in a film is the words. Well, you've got to admit that my property certainly has an abundance of these. True, there are some in the book that will have to be cut with a bow to the Legion of Decency and the Motion Picture Association. But look at all the others that I have to fool around with. There are 200,000 words contained in the latest dictionary. When you consider that "Cleopatra" has only 150,000, you'll see how far ahead I am to start with.

Now, what film have you ever seen that began with the word "aardvark"? The next word is "Aaron." He was the first high priest of the Hebrews. This gives us the DeMille Biblical touch, which adds another million at the box office. "A.B." means a Bachelor of Arts, which guarantees us an art house booking on the East Side and "abacus" immediately gives an Oriental intrigue to the project. And I just can't wait for the audience reaction at the ending when I ride off into the sunset, humming "zyzzyrds."

Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Cat's Pause Bit Sticky

ROME (NANA) Sophia Loren's Cheshire cat Pompidou in Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow, cost the company a cool $20,000, when it jumped out of Sophia's arms during a scene. Production was held up while everyone crawled around shouting "here puss, here puss." They were just about to start again with another cat, when old Cheshire puss turned up. Just like a star.

Billy de Wolfe and his wife have separated if not divorced, and Billy has rented a beautiful apartment in London's Grosvenor Square—all for himself... and did you know that his last name is not de Wolfe, but Jones?

Lex Barker, very popular in Rome, makes most of his films in Germany. He has enough to keep him busy there for the next four years. Lex, I am told, is still grieving over the death of his pretty wife. And that's a change from hearing of those who marry again almost before the body is cold.

Judy Garland's latest separation from Sid Luft was news to me. Judy who is now actually underweight, visited Sid and brought their children to the hospital where he is recuperating from his recent severe auto accident. Sid's car skidded on a wet road and almost wrapped him around a tree. I have a hunch they will be reconciled again, ere long.

It is strange how many versions of an interview there can be. Walter Wanger in his story of Cleopatra states that Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton decided Richard should see and talk with me in Rome. "For the sake of his wife Sybil." Ha! And another ha! For the reason given in The Cleopatra Papers by Jack Brodsky and Nathan Weiss, the two press agents who worked on the $40,000,000 epic. According to Mr. Weiss, it was Roddy McDowall who arranged everything. This is certainly news to Roddy and to me and to Mr. Wanger, and to Mr. Ascarelli who was head of publicity in Rome. Perhaps the latter gave this as the reason. But he and I know the real reason.

Sophia Loren and Carlo Ponti are building a chapel on the grounds of the $2,000,000 ancient villa they have been restoring on the road to Rome. They have also built a four-room home for some priests. Nonetheless, when Sophia and Marcello Mastroianni were filming a scene for their Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow in a shop where religious objects are sold, a passing bishop protested and said, "This is Vatican property, and no filming allowed."

The French censors are waiting for Joanne Woodward's scenes in A New Kind of Love. Joanne plays a new kind of call girl who has some "business," to quote prostitute Vickie Barrett in the Ward case, with top French government officials. Of course this sort of thing could happen in France as well as England.

When I told Robert Morse that the London production of How to Succeed in Show Business Without Really Trying is better than in New York because no one player stands out from the others, he replied, "Maybe I should break a leg."

'The VIPs' Released

MGM Tries to Cash In on Cleo

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — MGM is releasing another Elizabeth Taylor-Richard Burton movie hard on the heels of Cleopatra.

It's called The VIPs and it is being booked into 600 theatres throughout the world in the next several weeks. The aim is obvious: To cash in on Cleo's fame. The VIPs could stand on its own.

This is a problem picture. The problems concern how the rich hold onto their wealth and how they avoid being ruined by it.

Author Terrence Rattigan came up with an intriguing premise: What happens to a handful of well-heeled passengers whose New York flight is delayed in London by fog. The dilemmas:

1. A shipping magnate's wife (Elizabeth Taylor) has left her husband (Burton) a note at home saying she is leaving him for a gigolo (Louis Jordan).

2. An Australian wheeler-dealer (Rod Taylor) must get to a New York board meeting to cover a worthless cheque he has written to save his company.

3. A Swiss-based movie director (Orson Welles) must get himself and his actress-doxey

Lots of chance for drama here. And it is played for all it is worth, especially when Burton shows up to win back his wife by whatever means he can. Director Anthony Asquith keeps up the interest in each plot, cleverly cutting back and forth.

The dilemmas are solved to the satisfaction of most of the parties involved, though Rattigan used the extended arm of coincidence in two of his resolutions and all lack much surprise.

What about Taylor-Burton? She is as gorgeous as ever, though her figure is a bit ample. Modern drama is obviously her forte, and she delivers without a false note.

Burton is hampered, as with Marc Antony, by having to be hang-doggish through most of the film.

Wells is capital in a role he must have relished, and Rod Taylor continues to impress as a highly competent actor.

But the performer who wraps up The VIPs and takes it home is Margaret Rutherford. As a down-to-earth duchess in perpetual confusion, she had the preview audience howling every time she appeared on the screen.

Met's Lincoln Centre Opening Delayed Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Opening of the Metropolitan Opera house being built at the Lincoln Centre for the Performing Arts has been delayed a year. The new target date is September, 1963. The Metropolitan Opera Company said Thursday construction of the $42,700,000 structure is behind schedule. The Met will remain at its Broadway and 39th Street location for the next three seasons.

Courtroom Parade

Youth Asks Help
For Car Weakness

A youth with a weakness where he had been doing time for Chevrolets asked for psychiatric help when he appeared in city magistrate's court yesterday.

Court was told William Terry Quebec, 2530 Quadra, stole two cars in Victoria in two days. Both of them were Chevrolets.

He was recently released from a Saskatchewan prison

Thieves
Score Twice

Thieves hit two city business establishments in successful break-in attempts overnight Thursday.

A window was forced at Beacon Drive-In, 126 Douglas, and an undetermined amount of money taken from the cigarette machine.

In the second break-in, a window was broken and $25 stolen at Gorge and Douglas Home Service.

Man Injured
In Accident

In fairly good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital last night was Glen Mofford, 1204 Rockcrest, who was involved in a car accident in the 700-block Rockheights yesterday.

He was taken to hospital with a broken leg.

Name of the driver has not yet been released.

Woman Hurt
In Crash

Mrs. Freda Tarves, 828 Courtney, suffered facial cuts and chest bruises Friday when the car she was driving collided with one driven by John Wayne Adams, of HMCS Margaree, at the Thetis Lake overpass on the Trans-Canada Highway. She was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital and released. Damage to the two cars was estimated at about $1,500.

Berry Eaters Slacken
Parade to Pump Room

The parade to the stomach pump room of Royal Jubilee Hospital seems to have slackened off since Thursday.

A hospital spokesman last night said only a single case of laurel berry poisoning showed up yesterday.

Thursday 15 children were treated. Laurel berries are in a near-ripe state this time of year and look edible—but aren't.

Alma Mater Levy Up

Students Win Bid
For $6 Fee Hike

University of Victoria students have won a four-month battle to raise Alma Mater Society fees by $6 per student. Dr. W. H. Hickman said Friday.

The fees will now be $30 per year, $24 to be collected in September, and the other $6 in January, when second-term fees are paid.

COURSE FEES SAME
Fee for the academic course remains unchanged at $322, bringing the total fee to $352 per year.

Student council president Larry Devlin said the raise in fees brings it closer to the average of universities in the four western provinces. He said Alma Mater fees in Calgary, with the same enrolment as the University of Victoria, are $44.50. Students voted last spring to raise the fees, but the then Victoria College council would not allow the increase, which the students said was needed to finance expanded student activities.

Two-thirds of the $30 fee is used to support student athletic, social and recreational programs, and the other $10 is paid into the university development fund in payment for the recently built Student Union Building.

Weather Watch

Handclasp In Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union agreed Friday to join hands in space—specifically to watch the world's weather, measure earth magnetism and use a silvery space balloon to bounce radio messages.

Newest item was word that the Soviet Union would jointly experiment with a 13½-story U.S. Echo balloon satellite, perhaps this winter.

The satellite will provide a radio mirror in space for the passive relay or reflection of radio signals between the Soviet Union's Zemenki Observatory at Gorky State University and Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory.

TO U.S.
From Britain the messages would travel to the United States by conventional radio or cable.

Also announced was a co-ordinated weather satellite program.

COLD LINE

The "cold line" is separate from the "hot line" which will act as a primary teletype communications link between Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy on emergency international matters.

Other nations will be allowed to tap into the weather line by sharing the cost. It will be a two-way street with the Soviet Union also providing any available data from satellites, although it is not known if the Soviets have satellites photographing world cloud cover as U.S. Tiras satellites do.

U.S. Rail Strike Closer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A tentative agreement, at first hailed as a major breakthrough in the U.S. strike-threatening railroad work rules dispute, was endangered Friday night when management and the rail unions failed to agree on details of the two issues to be submitted to arbitration.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz denied that either side had flatly rejected it. A spokesman for the railroads had reported earlier that the chiefs of the five operating brotherhoods "have rejected the secretary's proposal which they said earlier that they had accepted."

But Wirtz was quick to deny this report. Instead, he said, the two sides had not agreed immediately on the details of the two issues to be submitted to binding arbitration. Meanwhile, Wirtz said he and his staff would work with both sides on the question involving the procedure for the other issues at stake.

How Did the Shuttle Go?

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI)—The two-coach Princeton Shuttle, one of the Pennsylvania Railroad's most insignificant trains, is the giant rail line's biggest headache right now. Railroad inspectors descended on the Shuttle's three short miles of track between here and Princeton Junction to find some clue as to how the little train made the entire trip without a crew.

Pennsylvania authorities admitted that the Shuttle made the downhill trip from Princeton to Princeton Junction just before midnight while the crew was having a coffee break. The crew said it set the train's brakes, so it couldn't have taken off on its own. But take off it did, running on electrified overhead wires that may or may not have powered its runaway trip. Inspectors say the train could just have run downhill, but then again there was no way of knowing.

A block operator at a wayside tower said he saw the train on its eerie journey, moving silently and without lights through the historic Princeton environs where Washington once defeated Lord Cornwallis. He alerted a control point which in turn flagged down a Philadelphia-bound passenger train six miles east of Princeton and gave it a go-slow signal. The little Shuttle completed its accustomed trip before the passenger train, running on the main line which passes through Princeton Junction, passed by. When it did, the Shuttle was sitting on a siding that leads to a loading platform at the junction.

'Mouth-to-Muzzle' Saves Fifi's Pup

EDMONTON (CP)—Mouth-to-muzzle breathing by an Edmonton woman has kept a miniature poodle's eight-pup litter intact.

Her dog, Fifi, was expecting a litter of four.

Mrs. Barbara Martin said Friday she breathed life into one pup immediately after its birth. "I put some of my breath into his body, tapped him with a finger, he squealed and then was okay," she said.

Panicky Thieves Ditching Money?

LONDON (CP)—Two married couples and a single man were charged and ordered held without bail Friday in connection with the great train robbery as police disclosed recovery of more of the loot taken in the daring holdup.

Detectives said four bags bulging with more than £100,000 ($300,000) were found Friday by a couple strolling in a wood south of London.

This brought to about £250,000

(£750,000) the total recovered so far from the Aug. 8 holdup of a royal mail train which netted the bandits £2,600,000 ($7,800,000).

Recovery of the "hot money" led top Scotland Yard officials to say the mail thieves may have panicked and may well try to dump much of their cash haul.

Three men and two women appeared briefly Friday before a magistrate's court at Linslade

—some 40 miles northwest of London and barely five miles from the spot where the train was ambushed eight days ago.

Roger John Cordery and Gerald Bosl were charged with being concerned in the robbery.

No 'Meeting of Minds' In Peace River Talks

VANCOUVER (CP)—Principal figures in discussions over status of a $73,000,000 Peace River dam construction project ended their talks Friday with widely differing public statements.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, said he expects "everything will be adjusted very shortly."

Peter Kiewit, president of the major construction firm on the Portage Mountain project, said "nothing has been accomplished."

The discussions were necessary because a court decision has nullified legislation creating the hydro authority.

Mr. Kiewit came to Vancouver from Omaha, Neb., earlier this week.

"I'm as confused as when I came," he said. "There has been no meeting of minds."

The construction consortium holds the existing dam contract to lack binding terms since the authority may not be a legal entity. Purchases of $10,000,000 in machinery, equipment and supplies for further work on Portage Mountain dam have been delayed.

Mr. Kiewit, who heads Peter Kiewit & Sons Company of Canada Limited, was here with Graham Dawson of Dawson Construction Limited and Vance Johnson of A. L. Johnson Construction Company of Canada Limited.

Dr. Shrum, who is chairman of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, said he expects "everything will be adjusted very shortly."

Eerie Journey

Massachusetts Air National Guard Capt. Hugh Lavallee, 29, of Springfield, Mass., spent nearly an hour aboard the trawler Johanna, one of a fleet of Soviet fishing boats in the waters off the coast here.

"Peace" was the first word the pilot heard from the crew of the Russian trawler.

They gave him medical aid, dry clothing, and offered him brandy and food aboard the ship which had 10 to 15 women in the crew.

The Soviets stitched a small cut on Lavallee's chin. He was otherwise unharmed except for two black eyes.

after picking me up, and kept saying "Peace" over and over again. I just smiled and thanked them."

Lavallee, an insurance man in civilian life, was on a routine training mission in his F4E Sabre jet when he ran into trouble. Along with three other jets, he was making practice firing runs at a target towed by a fourth jet over an area about 82 miles southeast of this Cape Cod base.

"Apparently the target from the tow plane broke loose and struck my plane, shearing off a wing tip," he said. "The plane went out of control and I ejected from about 20,000 feet."

After landing in the water, Lavallee inflated a small emergency raft while the other three pilots circled the Soviet trawler to gain its attention. The Russians quickly fired a green signal flare to show that they understood the situation.

WARHEADS IN MONTHS

OTTAWA (CP)—American nuclear warheads are expected to begin rolling into Canadian storage depots some time within the next several months, under an agreement put into effect by the two countries Friday.

Under the agreement, announced by Prime Minister Pearson, warheads for the Bomarc B anti-aircraft missile, the Voodoo jet interceptor, the Honest John artillery rocket and the CF-104 low-level jet bomber—American-built weapons already possessed by Canada—will be made available for use by Canadian forces in an emergency.

The Bomarc missile and the Voodoo are stationed in Canada for North American air defence. A Voodoo unit at Comox will have the warheads. The Honest John rocket has been supplied to Canadian troops under NATO command in Europe, and the CF-104 is being flown by the Canadian air division in Europe.

U.S. PERSONNEL
The agreement, which Mr. Pearson said gives effect to mutual defence commitments undertaken by the previous government, provides that custody of the warheads will remain with U.S. military personnel stationed at Canadian storage sites.

Control, however, will be exercised by both governments jointly. The warheads cannot be transferred to Russia.

member Voice of Women organization Friday called on the government to show "moral courage" and drop its plans to sign a nuclear warheads agreement with the United States.

In a statement released as the federal cabinet met to give final approval to the warheads agreement, the V.O.W. said it was "inconceivable" to take such a step while the United States Senate was debating ratification of the limited test ban treaty with Russia.

Control, however, will be exercised by both governments jointly. The warheads cannot be transferred to Russia.

U.S. Slayers In B.C. As Tourists?

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Local police were alerted Friday by their opposite numbers in California to be on the lookout for two suspected murderers who may have escaped across the border in their victim's car.

The killers have been using the credit cards of Mrs. Sam Crawford and police suspect they may have slipped into Canada posing as tourists.

Mrs. Crawford was beaten, bound with silk underclothing and electrocuted "tape" and strangled by robbers in her Santa Monica home July 23.

Liberals Gain Tories Keep Profumo Seat But Suffer 'Unkindest Cut'

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England (AP)—The ruling Conservative party has retained John D. Profumo's seat in Parliament but by a much reduced majority.

Stratford turned out 69.39 per cent of its 52,357 eligible voters Thursday to replace the former war minister who fell from grace because of the Christine Keeler-Stephen Ward vice scandal.

RESULTS
The results were: Angus Maude, Conservative, 15,846; Andrew Paulis, Labor, 12,776; Derrick Mirfin, Liberal, 7,622; Miles Blair, independent, 281; David Sutcliffe, independent, 209.

The Conservative majority fell by more than 10,000 votes. In 1959, Profumo got 26,146 votes against 12,107 for Labor's James Streeton.

Prime Minister Macmillan's party headquarters had to be satisfied with victory but in no mood to be pleased. A big win might have lent weight to the idea of an autumn general election.

Macmillan's Conservatives had to note their vote dropped by 24.9 per cent since the 1959 triumph. Labor's tally went up 2.37 per cent. The Liberals, who did not campaign in 1959, apparently took a lot of votes away from the Conservatives.

LORD BUTCH
The two independents, including pop singer "Screaming Lord Sutch," made no dent at all.

The Standard's political cartoonist, Vicky, quotes Stratford's most illustrious son, Shakespeare:

"This was the most unkindest cut of all."

Standing in the House of Commons:
Conservatives and allies 363, Labor 256, Liberals 7, vacant 5.

Jose Will Stay

By KLAUS MUESTER

DUNCAN—One-year-old Jose has at least two homes now after his former American owners left the baby Macaque monkey at Mr. and Mrs. Jim Oyen's Duncan Zoo.

At times Jose prefers to stay in the Oyen trailer-home and sometimes he shares a cage with other new arrivals—two squirrel monkeys from South America.

However, Jose doesn't mind company—animal or human—and often he accompanies Mrs. Oyen in the car on the condition he wears diapers.

Mr. Oyen said once in a while people leave animals at his zoo. The Macaque, now nine inches tall, will grow to about 18 inches.

When strolling at large, Jose prefers to climb legs—and he doesn't care to whom they belong.

Stop! Say Women

OTTAWA (UPI)—The 7,000-member Voice of Women organization Friday called on the government to show "moral courage" and drop its plans to sign a nuclear warheads agreement with the United States.

In a statement released as the federal cabinet met to give final approval to the warheads agreement, the V.O.W. said it was "inconceivable" to take such a step while the United States Senate was debating ratification of the limited test ban treaty with Russia.

Under the agreement, announced by Prime Minister Pearson, warheads for the Bomarc B anti-aircraft missile, the Voodoo jet interceptor, the Honest John artillery rocket and the CF-104 low-level jet bomber—American-built weapons already possessed by Canada—will be made available for use by Canadian forces in an emergency.

The Bomarc missile and the Voodoo are stationed in Canada for North American air defence. A Voodoo unit at Comox will have the warheads. The Honest John rocket has been supplied to Canadian troops under NATO command in Europe, and the CF-104 is being flown by the Canadian air division in Europe.

U.S. PERSONNEL

The agreement, which Mr. Pearson said gives effect to mutual defence commitments undertaken by the previous government, provides that custody of the warheads will remain with U.S. military personnel stationed at Canadian storage sites.

Control, however, will be exercised by both governments jointly. The warheads cannot be

U.S. Slayers In B.C. As Tourists?

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Local police were alerted Friday by their opposite numbers in California to be on the lookout for two suspected murderers who may have escaped across the border in their victim's car.

The killers have been using the credit cards of Mrs. Sam Crawford and police suspect they may have slipped into Canada posing as tourists.

Mrs. Crawford was beaten, bound with silk underclothing and electrician's tape and strangled by robbers in her Santa Monica home July 23.

Liberals Gain

Tories Keep Profumo Seat But Suffer 'Unkindest Cut'

... slight edge

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England (AP)—The ruling Conservative party has retained John D. Profumo's seat in Parliament but by a much reduced majority.

Stratford turned out 69.39 per cent of its 52,357 eligible voters Thursday to replace the former war minister who fell from grace because of the Christine Keeler-Stephen Ward vice scandal.

RESULTS

The results were: Angus Maude, Conservative, 15,846; Andrew Faulds, Labor, 12,376; Derrick Miffin, Liberal, 7,622; Miles Blair, independent, 281; David Sutcliffe, independent, 208.

The Conservative majority fell by more than 10,000 votes. In 1959, Profumo got 26,146 votes against 12,107 for Labor's James Streeton.

Prime Minister Macmillan's party headquarters had to be satisfied with victory but in no mood to be pleased. A big win might have lent weight to the idea of an autumn general election.

Macmillan's Conservatives had to note their vote dropped by 24.9 per cent since the 1959 triumph. Labor's tally went up 2.57 per cent. The Liberals, who did not campaign in 1959, apparently took a lot of votes away from the Conservatives.

LOD SUTCH

The two independents, including pop singer "Screaming Lord Sutch," made no dent at all.

The Standard's political cartoonist, Vicky, quotes Stratford's most illustrious son, Shakespeare:

"This was the most unkindest cut of all."

Standing in the House of Commons, Conservatives and allies 363, Labor 256, Liberals 7, vacant 5.

'Peace,' Say Russians After Rescuing Pilot

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (UPI)—Smiling Soviet fishermen rescued an American jet pilot Friday after he bailed out over the Atlantic Ocean.

"Peace," was the first word the pilot heard from the crew of the Russian trawler.

Massachusetts Air National Guard Capt. Hugh Lavalley, 29, of Springfield, Mass., spent nearly an hour aboard the trawler Johanna, one of a fleet of Soviet fishing boats in the waters off the coast here.

They gave him medical aid, dry clothing, and offered him brandy and food aboard the ship which had 10 to 15 women in the crew.

The Soviets stitched a small cut on Lavalley's chin. He was otherwise unharmed except for two black eyes.

"They were extremely friendly," the pilot told newsmen when he returned to the base. "No one spoke English fluently but I was able to communicate with them. They all shook my hand several times."

Lavalley, an insurance man in civilian life, was on a routine training mission in his F86 Sabre jet when he ran into trouble. Along with three other jets, he was making practice firing runs at a target towed by a fourth jet over an area about 82 miles southeast of Cape Cod base.

After landing in the water, Lavalley inflated a small emergency raft while the other three pilots circled the Soviet trawler to gain its attention. The Russians quickly fired a green signal flare to show that they understood the situation.

Railroad Puzzle

How Did the Shuttle Go?

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI)—The two-coach Princeton Shuttle, one of the Pennsylvania Railroad's most insignificant trains, is the giant rail line's biggest headache right now.

Railroad inspectors descended on the Shuttle's three short miles of track between here and Princeton Junction to find some clue as to how the little train made the entire trip without a crew.

Pennsylvania authorities admitted that the Shuttle made the downhill trip from Princeton to Princeton Junction just before midnight while the crew was having a coffee break. The crew said it set the train's brakes, so it couldn't have taken off on its own.
